1985 AERIE

"Aerie" means the nest of the eagle. Our school is a nest in a sense. We enter its doors with excitement, courage, and a little apprehension at beginning a new stage in our lives. For four years we are united together to strive, achieve, laugh, and cry until we leave our protective nest to build lives of our own.

The 1984-85 "Aerie" staff would like to thank Mr. Larry Anschutz for drawing our cover to help enhance our theme "Memories of the past, hope for the future."

A yearbook is made up of many things; stories, events, honors, graphics, headlines, cutlines and most importantly - pictures. Therefore, we would like to extend our gratitude to Del Mar Studios of Temple, Texas for providing the pictures used in the classes section. We welcome Henington Publishing Company of Wolfe City, Texas, as the publisher of the "Aerie". To Tom Wensel, our Henington representative, we give our thanks because without him we could not have produced this book.

Students, faculty, and administration all offered ideas to help the staff in putting the book together. We hope you enjoy reading it as much as we enjoyed putting it together.

Hope for

Being a Freshman . . .

"I'd rather be a freshman than a sophomore any day. The reason is that freshmen, juniors, and seniors are something, but sophomores are the ultimate nothing."

George Velten

"It's kind of like child abuse."

Kim Hernandez

"I love being a freshman!"

Jim Collier

"Being a freshman isn't all that bad, except for a few minor complications that really reek to the ultimate."

Trista Grammer

"Have you ever been stuffed into a locker? Take it from me, it doesn't feel too good."

Paul Leberge

"It's the ultimate excuse. You can always say I didn't know, I'm just a freshman."

Theresa Hancock

Kim Slaughter flashes a silver smile at the Aerie photographer.

Always stylish, Annie Veerkamp and Gwendy Milner were often seen in the Commons.

Breakdancing was a popular pastime for many freshmen.

The Future

Being a Sophomore . . .

"Freshmen look up to you because you know how things work. But juniors and seniors still look down on you. I guess you can't win for losing."

Donna Knauth

"You're not ashamed to admit you're a sophomore, but you don't tell anyone unless they ask."

Stephanie Jeffries

"Being a sophomore is mainly just occupying space."

Melodee Norment

"It's another step closer to being a senior."

Kelly Kuehn

"The work is a lot harder because the teachers don't baby you anymore, but you get a lot more respect than when you were a freshman."

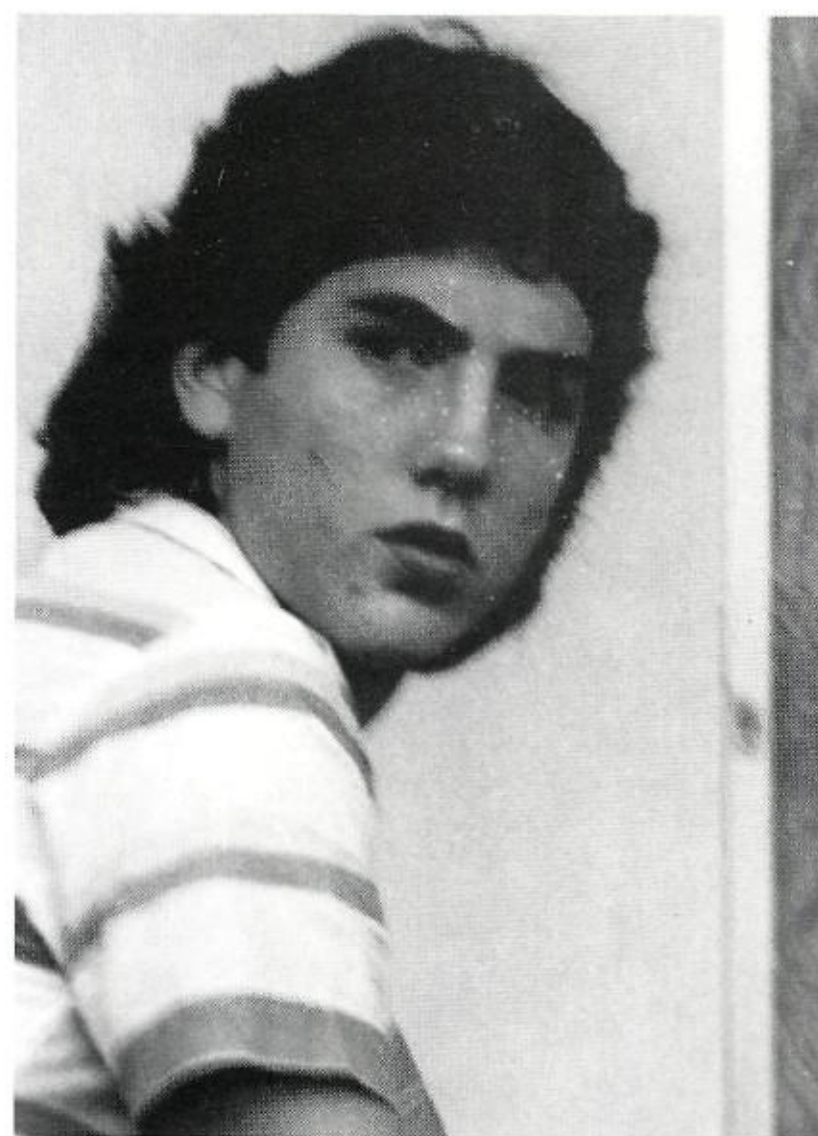

Deana Frommholz

Smiling wide, Karen Tillery studies Biology with David Willrich.

Chris Crow says, "Who . . . Me?"

Memories of . . .

Kayla Bizzell shows everyone her sexy wink.

Kayla Smith smiles her Georgette smile.

Being a Junior . . .

"The 'in-between' stage, not as prominent as a senior and not as lowly as a freshman."

Laura Dumais

"I think being a junior is fun because we know that pretty soon we will be seniors and hopefully will be graduating very soon. A junior just parties and just has a lot of fun."

Connie Guerrero

"The only thing good about being a junior is you can do everything to the 'Under classmen' that the 'Upper classmen' did to you."

Danna Vrabel

"What is it like being a junior, I'll tell you . . . put me in a time machine and get me out of here."

Bobby Wright

"Being a junior is like being the Vice-President. You are almost to the top, but not quite all the way."

Rochelle Williams

Kimmie Mitchell looks startled when her lunch is interrupted.

Denise Rea is all wrapped up at a pep rally.

Peter Vargas studies hard in one of his classes.

John Herrera dreams . . .

Being a Senior . . .

"Being a senior gives you a feeling of power."

Pam Owen

"It involves such things as practicing the 'Senior Strut', learning the perfect freshman cut down, having the guts to do anything, and the style to carry it off. In our fourth year we have the strut, a cut down, guts, and lots of style."

Cheri McKeighan

"Seniors have a lot to look forward to."

Tina Ransom

"Being a senior feels very relieving, but I have to remember it is just the beginning."

Paula Janning

Rosie Riojas listens to the directions to the bathroom.

Kevin Pratt is no longer jealous of girl's fashions.

Angie Davis does an impression of some of her favorite teachers.

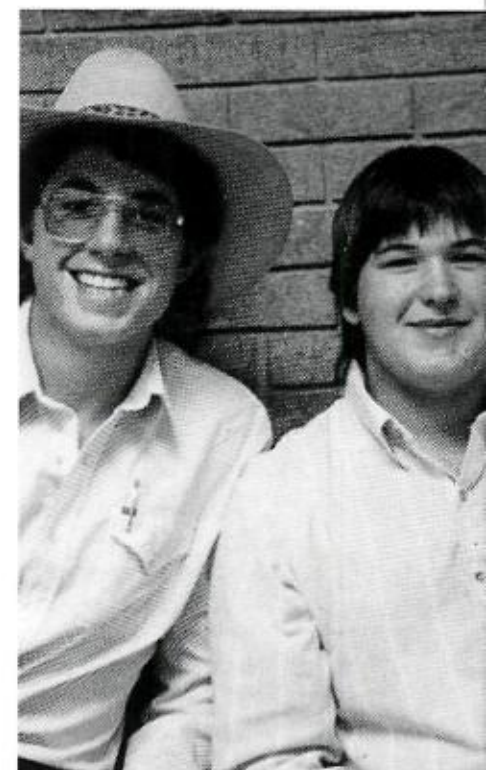

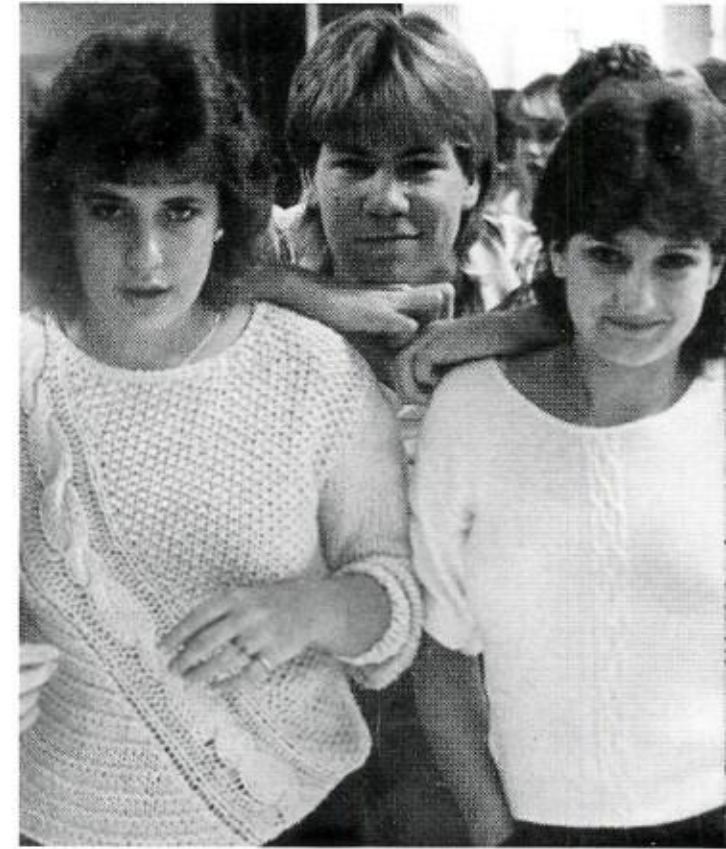

Loitering is a senior privilege.

Kyra Picken and Audra Buchanan tell Santa exactly what they want!!

Tricia Rothhammer shows her true personality.

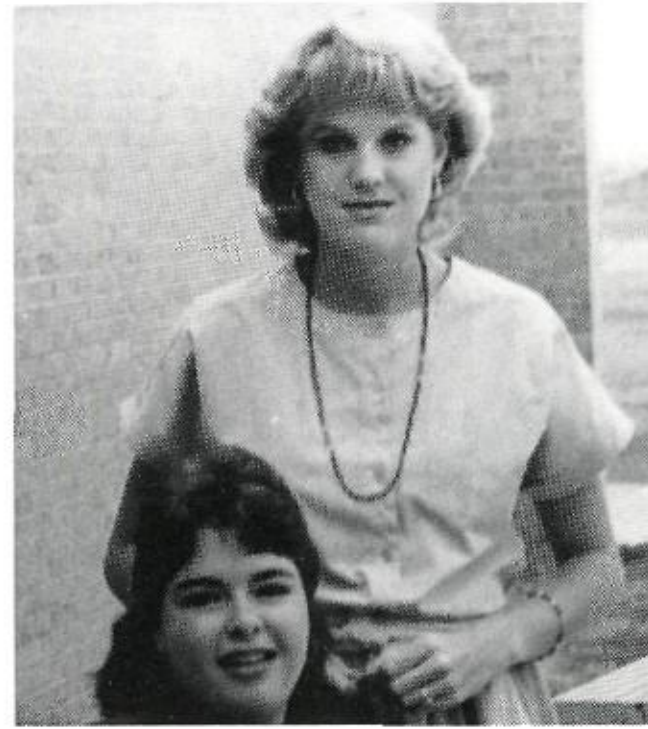

Kim Brent smiles while making a last minute decision.

Amy Hunt practices to be the next Geraldine Ferraro.

Carolyn Blanchard and Meredythe Cavendar flash their campaign smiles.

Girls Sweep Class Elections

In September, students started hanging posters and preparing speeches for upcoming elections. Then the campaigning began, it was time to elect class officers. An officers job is to represent the class, manage money, and to make wise decisions pertaining to the school and its students. One notable outcome was that female candidates swept the freshman and sophomore slates. Juniors and seniors placed only four male candidates in office.

Janet Bohanan was elected president of the Freshman Class, Jeannie Copeland was elected vice-president, Hyla Hundley was elected secretary, Debbie Puhlovich was elected treasurer.

Carolyn Blanchard was elected president of the Sophomore Class, Shelly Schmoker was elected vice-president, Meredythe Cavender was elected secretary, Kim Brent was elected treasurer, Julie Jenkins, Amy Carr, and Amy Hodge were elected representatives.

Mark Loescher was elected president, of the Junior Class, Martha Bracamontez was elected vice-president, Erica Peterson was elected secretary, Marshall Eidson was elected treasurer, Kim Piske, Lisa Klein, and Carla Campbell were elected representatives.

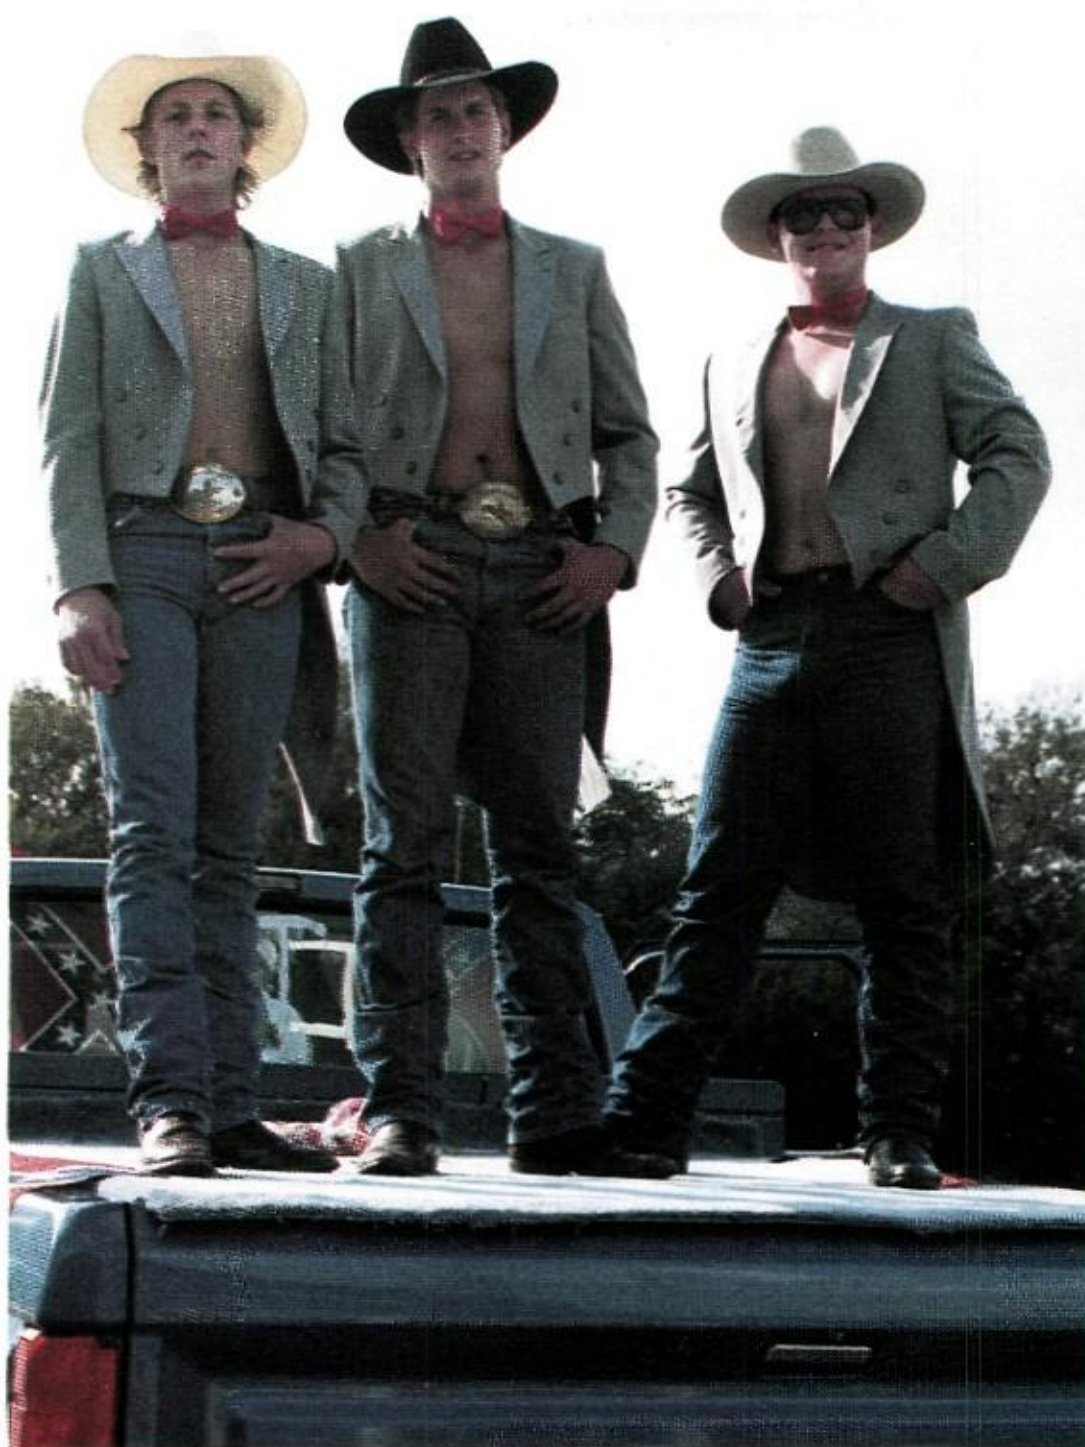

Keith Terrell was elected president for the Senior Class, Jeff Bazar was elected vice-president, Jennifer Mishler was elected secretary, Anette Alexander was elected treasurer, Sharlyn Kelly, Julie Burson, and Tricia Rothammer were elected representatives.

From Punk to Prep

This was a year of contrasts . . . punk was still funky . . . Michael Jackson moonwalked his way into the record books and out of fashion . . . Prince proved he was more than just a pretender to the throne . . . gasoline fell below $1 . . . twist-a beads went bust while buttons popped out all over . . . kickers still snuffed while preppies still primped . . . new faces were everywhere, not just in the freshman wing . . . windshields were polished and stickered . . . and all was right down in the Cabbage Patch.

Angela Harris just can't handle the modern fashion world of Gwendy Milner and Anne Veerkamp.

Jimmy Mabry, Wayne Kuehne, and Kenneth Foust show off a touch of Texas chic.

Chris Crow, Lisa Calem, Sherri Schroeder, and Laura Anderson model their G.H.S. styles.

It's a bird . . .

It's Super Eagle!

What comes to mind when you think of Friday night football games? The team, the coaches, the opponent, the drill team, the cheerleaders, and the band, right? All of these people contributed their school spirit to share in the excitement of the football games, but there was one other person, however, we must not forget. She was the excitement, the pep, the spirit, and the enjoyment of the games. She alone could get five thousand people up on their feet and expressing their enthusiasm and spirit for their team. Student, parents, children, and teachers were all affected by this energetic feathered phenomenon, "Georgie."

Football games, however, were not the only place she nested. She made her magnificent landing at the volleyball and basketball games as well. Each week, Heather McCreless transformed her normally reserved self into "Georgie," the pride and spirit of Georgetown High. She has laughed and teased herself into the heart of every student at G.H.S., and won't be soon forgotten.

Cupid Strikes Students' Hearts

Carla Campbell and Wade Bouffard enjoy each other's company.

Sam Williams and Lori White have been dating since summer.

Shelley Schmoker and Chad Jenkins sit together at a basketball game.

Mike Kuehne is CRAZY over Lorretta Fishar. They have been together for four years.

Homecoming nominee, Becky Kalinauskis is escorted by her boyfriend Lance Lemanski.

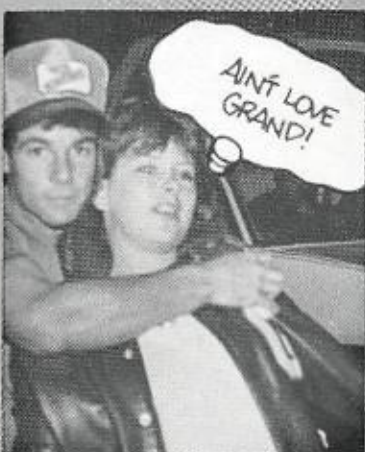

Marshall Eidson and Amy Hodge make a cute couple.

Tol Harris is thrilled about having his picture made with Cammy Orgon.

Cynthia Ariza can't take her eyes off Daniel Scurlock.

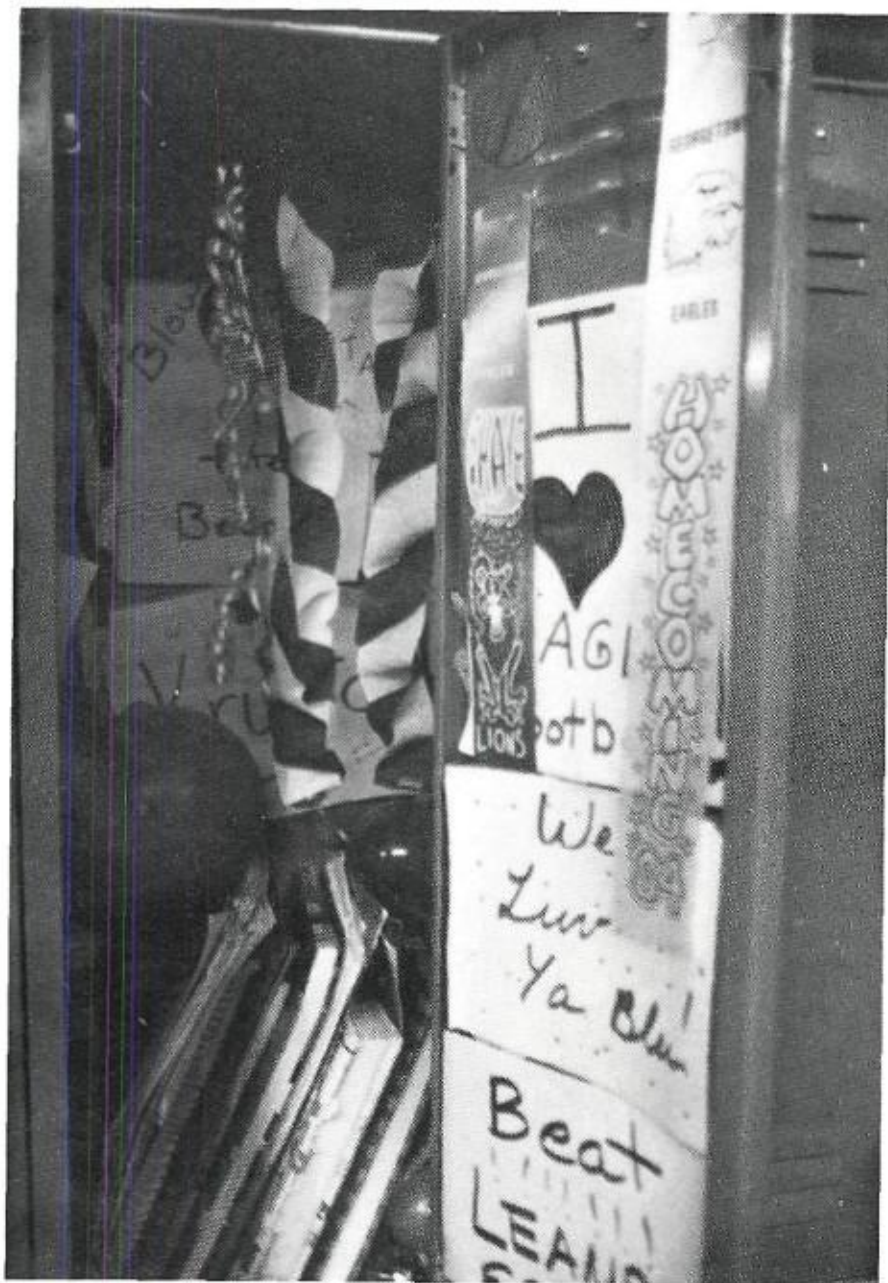

Don Shelton hugs Christy Kassner as she dreams.

Kim Brent and Scott Hill are caught behind the bleachers . . . talking.

Among the decorated lockers this year were those belonging to cheerleaders. This one shows football ribbons, streamers, balloons, and spirit signs.

A Place for Your Stuff

Amid the hum-drum, day to day routine where most students shuffle to classes, fade into the social scheme, and conform to the school's rules, there's still one bastion of individuality - lockers.

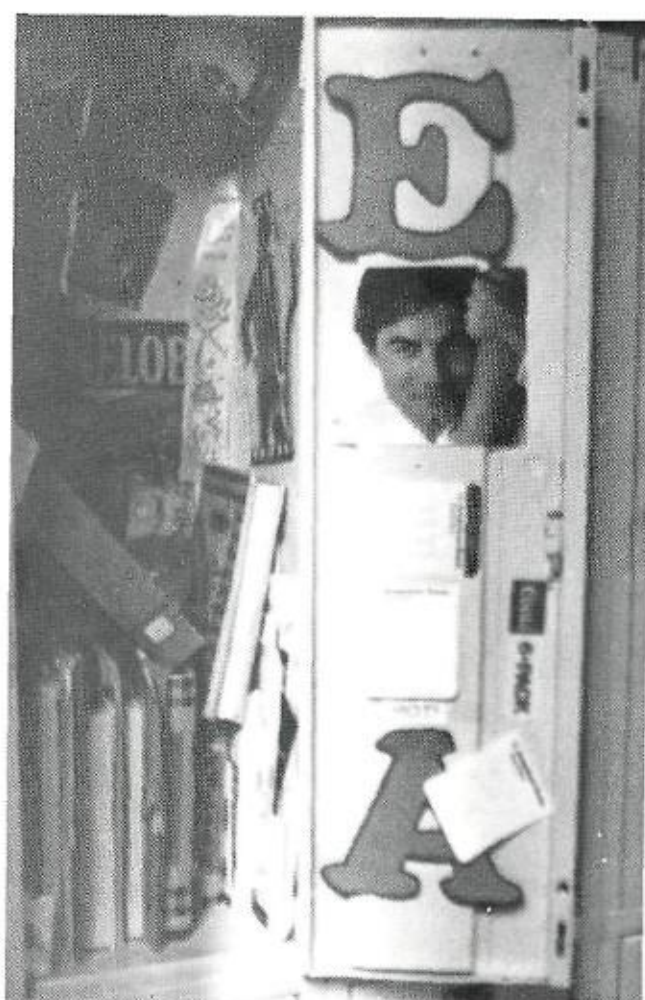

The metal closets provide an exhibition arena for their occupant's favorite things, and club and athletic affiliations, and contain clothes, shoes, food, posters, photos, banners, and yes, sometimes even a few books.

Many groups and sports team made locker signs for their members. Pictured here are football and band locker signs.

Football ribbons, pictures, letters, and notepads are up in this locker.

Many lockers have pictures of popular stars and actors as shown here.

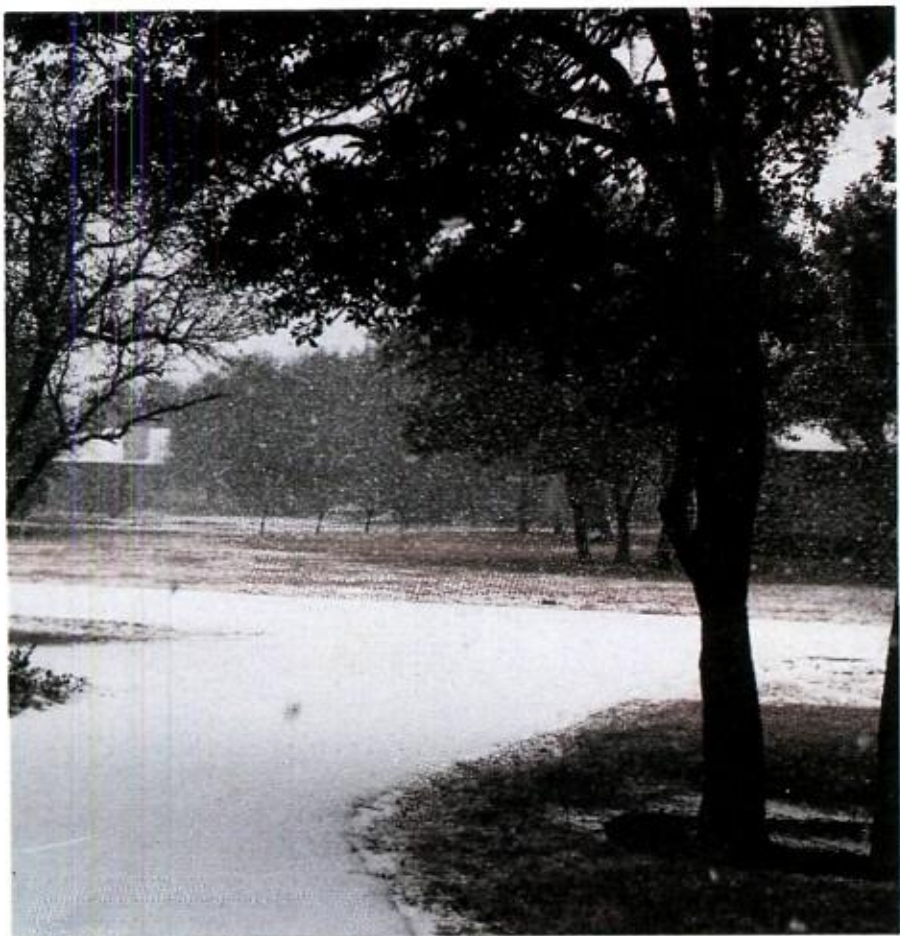

Although late for the Christmas holidays, several arctic cold fronts swept through Georgetown, leaving blankets of white, in January and February.

Given a two hour reprieve, Georgetown students were released early from school on February 1. On January 14 and February 5, school started two hours late. On January 3 and February 4, students were given whole days off due to the bad weather.

Of course, those who had 4-wheel drive vehicles took off on the inevitable snowman massacre. Others chose to jump in cars or trucks and try some skids or doughnuts on the ice. Some people did them without even trying. The remaining few could be found sitting in a jacuzzi or throwing snowballs at the people in the jacuzzi, or by having an all-out snowball brawl.

'Snow Kidding

One can never be sure what the weather holds in store, but we can look back on those few unforgettable days when Georgetown literally stood still.

Alexander Crowned, Eagles Win, to

One of the most exciting events of the season was the annual Homecoming game and dance. The Eagle Football Team defeated the Bastrop Bears by a score of 7-3. Festivities included a special half-time performance by the band, twirlers and drill-team, and also the coronation of the Homecoming Queen by Superintendent Jack Frost. This year the honor went to Anette Alexander. Runners-up were Jennifer Mishler, Stacey Sims, Rhonda Exley and Lori Sanders. After the ceremony, one of the many GHS mobil D-Js played at the high school dance.

Ricky Rosenblad and Heather McCreless both daydream about being crowned.

Master and Mistress of ceremonies are Jeff Mallon and Denise Rea.

Class Favorites were also announced at the Coronation Ceremonies. Usually eight favorites, four boys and four girls are nominated by each class, but this year, there was a tie and five junior boys were chosen.

The 1984-85 class favorites were Seniors, Jennifer Mishler and Keith Terrell; Juniors, Martha Bracamontez and Frank Burgess; Sophomores, Lori Raper and Scott Pope; Freshmen, Jennifer Zeplin and Scott Johnson.

Freshman class favorite nominees are Eric Giegly, Jennifer Zeplin, James Hurtado, Kyrstal Hanson, Mark Cumberland, Mandie Dalton, Scott Johnson and Hyla Hundley.

Sophomore class favorite nominees are Scott Hill, Lori Raper, Trent Christianson, Missy Connell, Scott Crawford, Shelley Schmoker, Scott Pope and Debbie Hauser.

House Bill 72 Takes Toll on G.H.S.

By Audra Buchanan

The 1984-85 school year brought a great many changes in the academic areas as well as the extracurricular activities for Texas high school students. In a special session called during June of 1984, the Texas House of Representatives met and set many new rules and regulations for the upcoming school year. These were combined in House Bill 72. In early 1984, governor Mark White appointed Dallas millionaire H. Ross Perot to head a special Education Reform Committee. Perot and his committee visited various schools around Texas and decided that there just wasn't enough learning going on.

In the fall of 1984 Perot appeared before a committee composed of 20 superintendents elected by fellow superintendents. G.I.S.D. Superintendent Jack Frost who had served two consecutive four year terms, was the only one of the 20 who challenged Perot's ideas. Frost argued that Perot had seen only a few schools and Georgetown High was obviously not one of them. In the Spring of 1984, Perot sent a committee to review Georgetown schools. "We've never seen a quieter or busier school," said the special committee. Frost believes in "Striving for 1000% in academic excellence" but believes that Perot's ideas "should be more practical."

In early 1985, representatives of the Texas Education Agency visited our high school. After a week of intensive evaluation the representatives said their report "looked like a love letter to Georgetown," according to Frost.

The most noticeable changes that resulted from H.B. 72 were in the extracurricular activities. "No pass-no play" became a very popular saying early in the school year.

Students who were not passing all their subjects were not allowed to participate in any activity for six weeks beginning in January. Frost felt this was just not fair. "Students should be graded on a one week grading system," said Frost.

According to House Bill 72, the State Board of Education shall limit participation during the school day and the school week. This rule was made to preserve the school day for academic activities. Some students can be suspended from participation in extracurricular activities "during the grade reporting period after a grade reporting period in which the student received a grade lower than the equivalent of 70 on a scale of 100 in any academic class."

The next major problem seemed to be the "passing 70". For several years until 1985, students could make as low as a 60 and still pass a class. After H.B. 72 went into effect students had to maintain a 70 to pass. This rule affected everyone and everything.

Since the grades dropped, tutorial services were provided for students. On selected afternoons certain subjects were given special attention. A teacher was provided so students could receive the help they needed. "Students may be promoted only on the basis of academic achievement. A student who has not maintained a grade average for a school year equivalent to at least 70 on a scale of 100 may not be advanced from one grade level to the next," according to H.B. 72.

Teachers were also hit with new rules and regulations. They now had much more paperwork. At least once every six weeks teachers had to send out a notice to parents of unsatisfactory grades. While some students thought that they didn't have to have these notices signed because they were already 18 years old they were wrong. The only students who were exempt from these rules were married students, emancipated minors, or legal adults living alone.

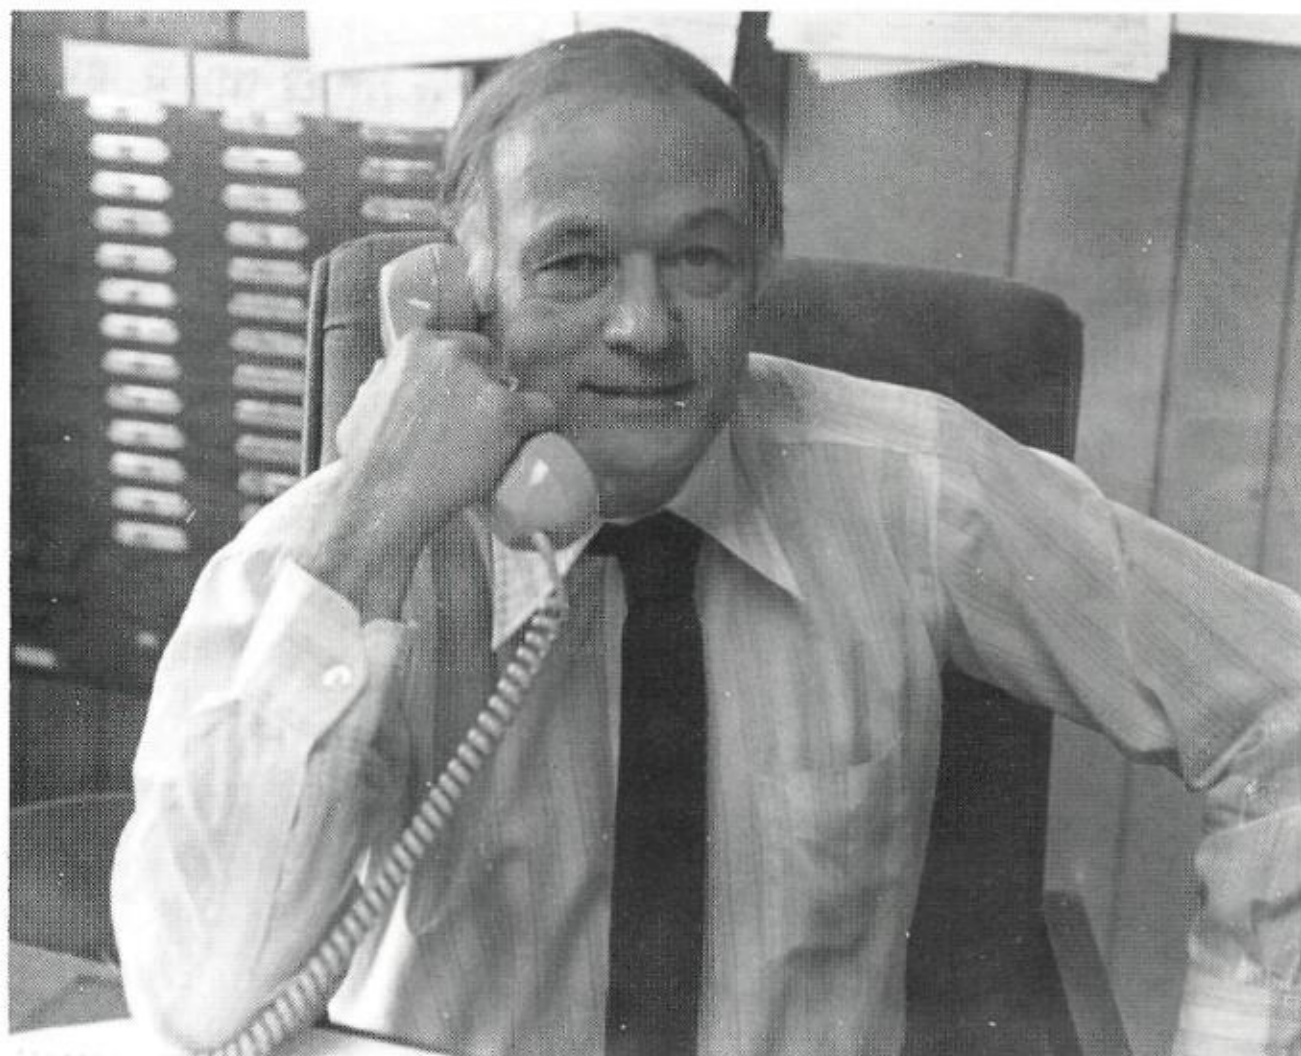

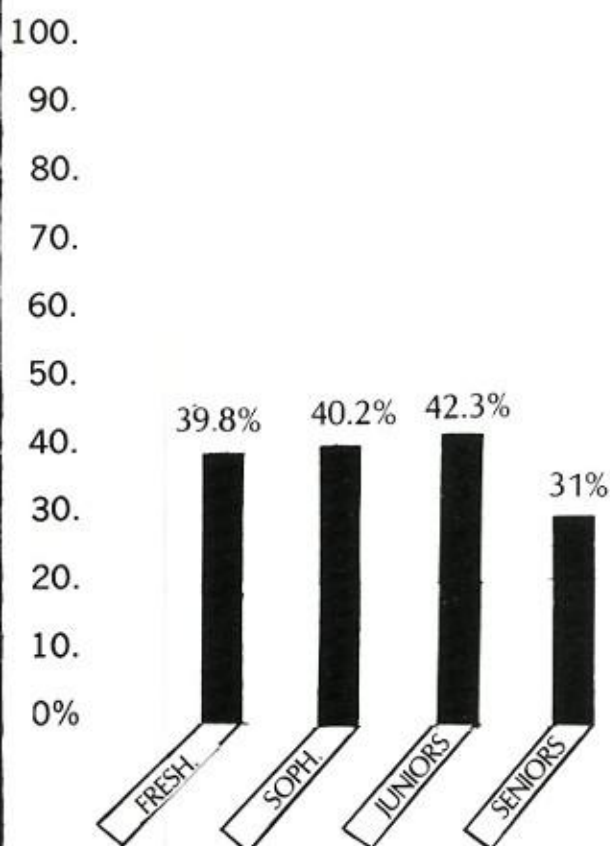

Removal of incorrigible pupils also became an interesting subject. "To find a pupil guilty of incorrigible conduct, the board of trustees or the board's designate, at a hearing that provides procedures, must find: 1. that the student is a danger to the pupil or other individuals. 2. that the student has engaged in serious or persistent misbehavior. 3. that all alternatives have been exhausted.

In Georgetown, unruly students were sent to the old fieldhouse at Central Middle School. Students took their lunches, and stayed in the same place all day long working on homework and other studies. Most students would agree that this was not a very pleasant place to stay. The length of their stay depended on the severity of the problem.

Most changes in the 1984-85 school year came about abruptly and suddenly, leaving both students and teachers questioning the viability of so much so soon.

1984-85 No Pass-No Play

The no pass, no play rule took its toll on GHS students engaged in extracurricular activities. Failure rates for the first six week period that the rule was in effect are shown in the graph below.

'Michelle' Allen Wins Año Nuevo

The Miss Año Nuevo pageant is sponsored annually by the Spanish Club. The club starts working diligently at the beginning of each school year by getting other clubs to nominate a male representative for the pageant. The Spanish Club also works on all of the props, choreographs the opening number, and designs all of the special effects.

The male contestants also work hard by finding a dress that will hopefully fit, a pretty wig, and of course, a vivacious figure!

This year's winner was Mitchell "Michelle" Allen.

Frank "Boxing Stripe" Burgess was first runner-up, Justin "Busty Justy" Sharp was second runner-up and Miss Congeniality, Jeff "Jamie" Hulme was third runner-up and Mike "Michelle" Hewlett was fourth runner-up.

Michelle Allen is awarded "her" 1985 Miss Año Nuevo crown.

"In my 25 years of teaching I've always had a large culminating activity planned for students every year," said Mrs. Mary Alice Brinley. "I think it is good for relating subject matter to students in a fun and interesting way and it is also an excellent preparation for activities in one's future."

That activity has for several years been Great Gatsby Day, held May 10 and students basically took charge of everything, with supervision from Mrs. Martha Cochran and Mrs. Brinley, who gave students different ideas and choices for that one special day.

"We try to get the students to create where possible, teach each other, volunteer, serve, research, and take care of all the necessary plans," said Mrs. Brinley.

The annual event may seem like just fun on the outside, but there are several advantages. Students benefit from learning to cooperate with others and learn how to apply knowledge in a practical situation.

We look back on Gatsby Day as a chance to have some fun, as much as possible at school, and look forward to those Gatsbys to come.

"Powder Puff" just doesn't seem to be the appropriate title for the football game held between the Junior and Senior girls, May 17 at Eagle Field. Both teams went onto the field at 5:00 with serious attitudes about winning. The teams had been preparing for weeks, getting their plays together at practices held after school and on weekends.

The Juniors surprised the Seniors by dominating the whole game. The Seniors had too many bad breaks, fumbles and bad throws, and this led to their loss.

In the first quarter, the Juniors started off strong, scoring early.

Quarterback Tessy Feist scored on a 15 yard "quarterback sneak", and halfback Lisa Klein ran in the two-point conversion, putting the Juniors ahead 8-0.

Tessy Feist kicked off to the Seniors. Sandy Shepard took it at about the 42 yard line and ran it for five yards. After two plays the Seniors fumbled and the ball was recovered by Junior Charlotte Jefferson. The Juniors had five plays before turning the ball back over to the Seniors due to loss of yardage. Senior Quarterback Janelle Sibley was tagged down in the backfield by Carla Campbell. On this play there was a break in the action when Gene-a Martinka and Pam Owens had some differences. On the next play the Seniors once again fumbled and the ball recovered by Junior Gina Sagola.

Amy Hunt carried the ball for the Juniors and had a loss of three yards being brought down by Senior Sandy Shepard. Carla Campbell had a gain of about five yards bringing the Juniors closer to the goal line. After an incomplete pass by Feist, she hit Kelly Poarch on the seven yard line, passed to the end zone for a Junior touchdown. Lisa Klein ran in the conversions making the score 16-0, Juniors led at halftime.

Third quarter action began with a Tessy Feist kick off and the Senior girls just couldn't hold on to the ball. Their fumble was recovered by Junior Kim Piske.

The Junior coaches sent in Marci Gish to run the ball but after she had a loss of a couple of yards, Christy Kassner said, "Marci, stop laughing and run!"

On the next play the ball was fumbled on a bad pitch to Lisa Klein and was recovered by Senior Pam Owens on the Junior 30 yard line.

The Seniors went on to lose when they were left scoreless at the end of the fourth quarter. This was the first time since 1982 that the Juniors had won.

Choir Talent Show Features 14 Acts

The GHS Choir sponsored the third annual Talent Show on March 15, at the junior high cafeteria. There were 14 entries in the Talent Show, which had as its theme, 'Shoot for the Stars'.

The winners were Robbie Jones and Miranda Cisneros, in the dancing category, Heather McCreless and Frank Burgess were the winning singers, and a special award went to Mark Loescher, who was the show's lone comedian.

Stacey Sims and John Helms provided some special entertainment by singing "Just You and I".

Julie Burson shows her singing talent by singing a medley from "FAME".

One of the other singers, Cathy Read, sings "This is One of Those Moments".

Two of "The Three Dimensions" dance to "Material Girl".

Sophia Frost entertained the audience by playing "The Rose" on the piano.

Pianist Michael Mickan plays the "Theme from Terms Of Endearment."

Stacey Milam dances to "The Dream".

Winners of the talent show are Mark Loescher, Robbie Jones, Miranda Cisneros, Heather McCreless, and Frank Burgess.

Diverse Activities Spark Weekends

Kim Barker and Kim Honeycutt kick back and enjoy their lunch.

"Swamp Man", Wayne Kuehn preys on another victim.

Stephanie Jeffries prepares for a night on the town.

From the S.P.J.S.T. Hall to Eagle Field to Sixth Street, students always found a variety of pastime activities for the weekend.

"By the end of the week, I'm so burnt out on school I have to go do something to have fun," replied junior Tara Ebersole after being asked why she liked Friday so much. Some students find it necessary to begin venting their school-inflicted frustrations as soon as that 3:21 bell rang on Friday.

"We used to go to Round Rock (for Taco Bell) after school. Pretty soon other people were going up there with us," said sophomore Melodee Norment.

With the ending of the day came the beginning of the night, excitement-starved students fled their homes in search of something to do. The question was always raised, "Any Parties?" Well, only if they were lucky. An occasional party at Booty's, by the river or at someone's house was a monumental event, drawing every possible person within the city limits to the party. Then, of course, there was the Austin-bound crowd. Bennigan's by Highland Mall was a well visited site, along with any movie theater, the bowling alley, and, of course, Sixth Street. Sixth Street may have offered a chance to see new and different people, but it did have a problem with crime through the months of January and February. When the Debonaires played in Round Rock at the S.P.J.S.T., the streets of Georgetown, remained virtually empty.

Community Center dances were sponsored by ICE, DYNASTY, EXTASY, or EXILE.

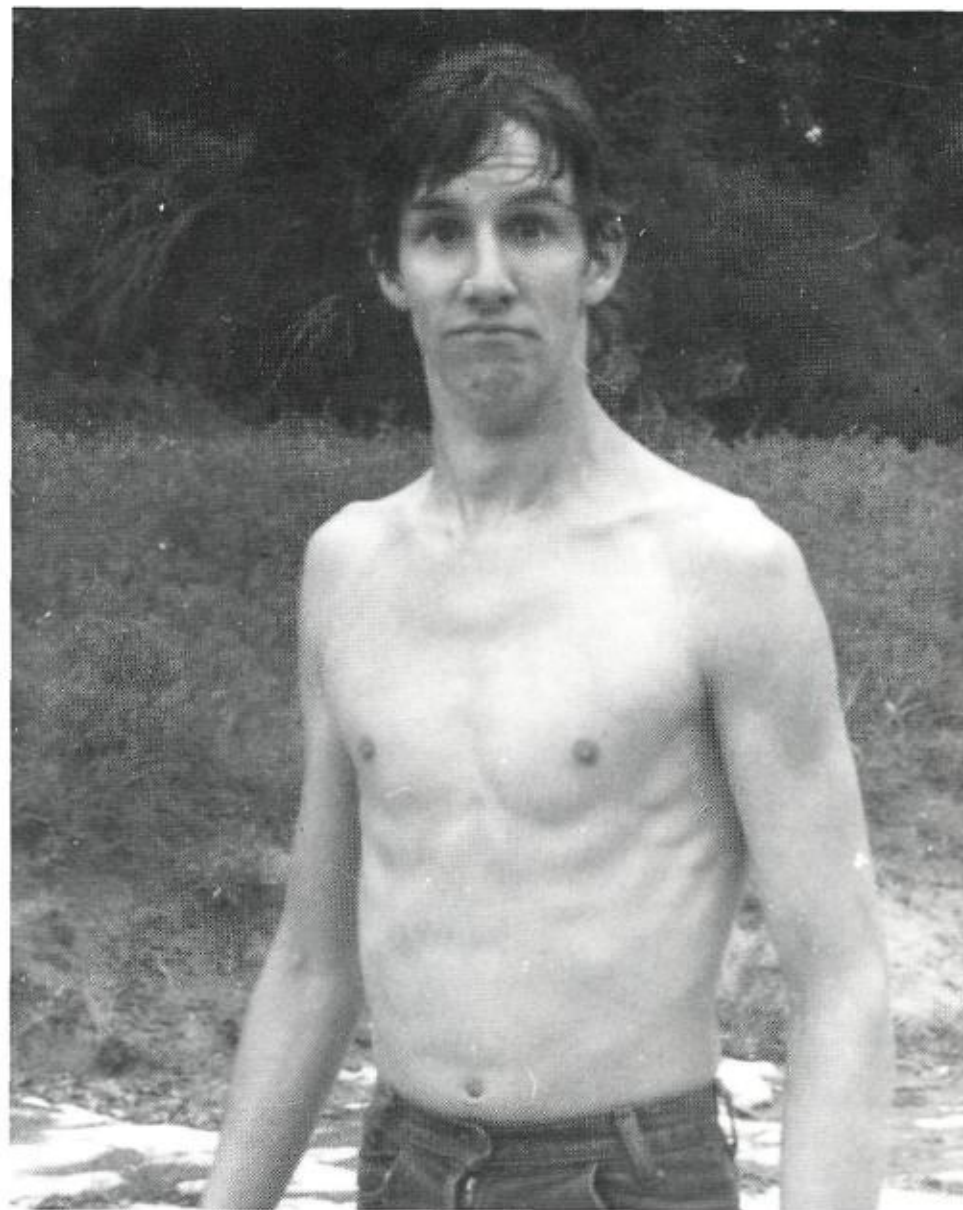

Of course, during football season, not only students, but the whole town turned out for the games and spectacular half-time shows. After a home game a dance would be held at the high school. It was usually a victory dance. Not only were the nights filled with entertainment, the two days of being able to shop and go to the lake were always well spent. Even after a rain, people headed for the lake. If they couldn't get any sun, they were assured of a good mud brawl.

When senior Kyra Picken was asked about what she usually did on the weekends, she replied with a slight smirk, "Take an awful lot of road trips and play with a lot of clocks."

"I usually go to Rogers, then Austin, Temple, . . ." said Senior Audra Buchanon.

Having Austin so close to Georgetown gave students the choice of what to do on the weekends. For example, concerts always drew a Georgetown crowd. Prince, Kiss, Bryan Adams, Madonna, and Chicago were among the most popular concerts.

In whatever students were doing for their weekends, they were having fun. Even if it was just the ever reliable "cruising through town."

Students Honored at Banquets

The closing of the 1984-85 school year brought with it banquet season. Georgetown, Band, Choir, National Honor Society, Future Farmers of America, and the general Spring Sports Banquet were all held.

All students who participated in extra curricular athletics were honored with their end of the year sports banquet on May 16. Outstanding athletes were recognized and also received awards. Scholar Athletes included freshmen Amy Remmert and Shane Sills, sophomores Tina Wolff and Shawn Donahey, juniors Lisa Klein and Max Moudy and seniors Stacey Sims and Ricky Rosenblad.

Outstanding players for the year included for girls track, Kerri Sheffield and Sandy Shephard; boys track, Keith Terrell and Sam Williams; for golf, Amy Remmert and Kirby Kielman, for tennis, Lori Hardage and Greg Hoagland; and for baseball, Ricky Rosenblad was chosen.

The Georgetown Banquet was held May 18, at the junior high commons. Graduating members were given special honors. "We wanted to make the banquet special for everyone, but mainly for graduating seniors," said junior Georgetown, Kim Honeycutt.

The event was a semi-formal affair and also presented outstanding awards to its members. Miss Georgetown was awarded to Becky Kalinauskis. Jodi Copeland was chosen Miss Congeniality, Outstanding Dancer was Simone Mantz; Best High Kicker was Katy Rea; Rookie of the Year was Zita Nemeth; Outstanding Senior was Angie Davis; Outstanding Junior was tied between Jennifer Hauser and Paige Griffin; and Outstanding Sophomore was Lori Raper.

Officers and corporals of the Georgetown were also announced. They were, Captain Simone Mantz, First Lieutenant Laura Anderson, Second Lieutenant Stephanie Jeffries, and Third Lieutenant Tara Ebersole. Corporals were Jodi Copeland, Kim Barker, Kerri Shehan, and Janet McIntosh.

Choir held its banquet May 18 at the high school at the same time the band held its banquet. The choir, band and drill team held a dance after their banquets. Music and lighting were provided by ICE. The dance was in the high school commons.

The Future Farmers of America banquet was in the form of a barbeque in San Gabriel Park.

National Honor Society ushered in new officers at its banquet May 10 at Lake Georgetown.

Superintendent of Georgetown schools, Jack Frost spoke at each banquet.

Assemblies Are Narrowed Down

Because of new state rulings, limiting time students may spend away from studies, students were limited to only one assembly, and that was only because it had been booked a year in advance.

This one assembly featured a hypnotist, Dr. Saul Shafon, who tried to put students in a relaxed state of mind. There was not another schoolwide assembly.

However, there were several small class wide meetings, involving the junior class, in which the representative for class rings, Donald Overall came to sell rings and one for the senior class where Overall came to sell senior invitations and caps and gowns.

Beach Bum, Kamikaze, Fifties, Spark Pep

Friday mornings in the fall symbolized two things; the end of the week and Pep Rallies. Faithful Eagle fans filled the gym with spirit and pride during football season. The drill team and twirlers took turns performing routines and the band supplied the music.

The cheerleaders, with the help of the football players, performed skits to entertain the crowd, using Beach Bum, Kamikaze, and Fifties Day as themes.

Varsity, the Spirit continues

Cheerleaders keep busy from tryouts in the spring until the end of each year.

It all begins early each year in May, when all the girls who have practiced so diligently, try out to determine who will continue the hard work.

After try outs, the cheerleaders must meet for practices during the summer in order to be ready for competition in summer camp. They also have to plan ahead during the summer and paint yard signs, run-through signs, locker signs, and pep signs for the pep rallies to come.

The cheerleaders not only cheer, but they also dance to popular songs, do pom-pom routines, and also make up skits.

A year for a cheerleader does not consist of cheering for only one sport, but rather football, basketball, volleyball, and supporting track and soccer.

Georgettes Strut Through The

"Working together to achieve a single goal has been a driving force for the Georgettes Drill Team this year," said Stacey Milam, 1984-85 squad captain. "The Georgettes worked for a full twelve months developing a close bond between all of the members, which helped them become one of the best drills teams around."

Getting 38 members, 25 of them rookies, to work together as closely as all teams must, was a task Mrs. Jane Webb, first year Georgette director, had to face.

"We have always needed discipline. Without it we'd be at the same place we started in August," said Mrs. Webb.

Mrs. Webb came to the rescue of the Georgettes in August when the absence of a permanent sponsor began to take its toll.

Before Mrs. Webb's arrival, Mrs. Linda Holmstrom organized a summer camp along with weekly practices, which were not mandatory, but were of great help to most of the attending girls.

Mrs. Holmstrom also set up, supervised, and sustained, order in August practice, along with helping the new director adjust to her vast responsibilities.

During the second week of June Mrs. Holmstrom sponsored a training camp for the drill team. Miss Drill Team, Pam McElroy of the Cougar Dolls, was brought in from the University of Houston, to teach the summer camp.

The 38 dancers learned eight different routines in that single week. Routines consisted of three prop routines, a chair, stool, and cube, two novelties, two jazz, and one high kick routine.

"We worked from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day. At first everyone was in shock by all the work it took, but by the fourth day we were pretty much used to it," stated second year member, Kayla Smith.

On the last day of camp Elroy awarded the team a trophy for outstanding drill team and gave out six individual blue ribbons to Stacey Milam, captain; Jodi Copeland, lieutenant; Simone Mantz, lieutenant; Laura Anderson, corporal; Liz Bopp, senior rookie; and Stephanie Jeffries, sophomore rookie.

As the year continued, fund raisers for everything from new warm ups, capes, props, and uniforms for next year were held. New traditions were even formed, such as the Spring Show.

If one were to ask any of the 1984-85 members he would find that sister-like relationships were formed throughout the course of the year.

"It was a lot of hard work, but when you look back on it, it was really worth it. I feel like we really accomplished something this year," commented third year member and corporal Shelia Hallmark.

Practice Makes Band All Around Winners

Judges and directors from Texas marching band competitions have just about run out of awards to give to the Eagle Band.

For the seventeenth year in a row, the AAAA Sweepstakes trophy returned with the band from District Competition, and for the fifth year in a row, the Eagle ensemble outmarched other AAAA contenders for the State Championship. These honors share the trophy case with the State Honor Band title.

It took lots of long hours, intense practices, muddy sneakers, and concentration to reach the top state ranking, but band director Rodney Klett, and his staff, Michael Schaff, Susan Mendel, Jane Botkin, and Richard Sullivan, were relentless taskmasters.

Choir Hits Top Notes

The Georgetown High School Choir had a very eventful year with many concerts, fundraisers, and trips. The first big event for the Choir was district and region auditions. Solo and Ensemble was held in March at G.H.S. and those individuals making "one's" on their song advanced to State Solo and Ensemble in June. Those who qualified for State were; Cathy Read, Tricia Rothhammer, Joe Stanfield, Brandon Marshall, Michael Mikan, Susan Spriggs, Lisa Carlisle, Rose Riojas, Jane Kuehne, Kelly Bryant, Annie Veerkamp, and Dorothy Perryman. The Boy's Quartet and the Madrigal Singers also qualified for State competition.

The Choir's greatest fundraiser was The Annual Talent Show, held in March. Not only did it raise money for the group, but it also gave the whole school an opportunity to share its talent. Contests for the Choir included a concert/sightreading contest in Austin and the Six Flags Festival, both held in April.

The Choir consisted of three groups. The Mixed Choir and the Men's Chorus were directed by Neal Campbell and the Women's Chorus was directed by Bruce Johnson. Choir Officers for the 1984-1985 school year were; President, Stacey Sims; Vice-President, Julie Burson; Secretary, Tricia Rothhammer; Historian, Heather McCreless; and Librarians, Susan Spriggs and Dawn Oakley.

'Vanities,' 'Barretts,' 'Brodie,'

Drama offered to students not only the knowledge of how to project to an audience, but also the experience of acting on stage in front of a live audience.

In the comedy Vanities, which consisted of three acts, students were given the chance "as a cast to do in depth character studies," commented Ms. Katherine Renegar, drama teacher. Vanities, performed in October, offered a nostalgic look at growing up, tracing the lives of three girls from high school and college, to adulthood. Major parts were played by Betsy Hebert, Angela Harris, and Sherri Schroeder.

The second play performed by the drama department was The Barretts of Wimpole Street. With so many of the department's students being new to the stage it was a "real change," from the previous comedy to serious drama. Canine "Maggie Mallon" played "Flush" for the January production. Ms. Renegar remembered, "the dog never broke character. She knew all her lines, and even stole the whole show." Debuting actors were Angie Nicolini, David Ruka, Laura Hayes, Mac and Doug McLean, and Neal Crawford.

The third play of the season was the U.I.L. One-Act, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, starring Lisa Calem, Jeff Mallon, Sherri Schroeder, and Betsy Hebert. Hebert took all star cast honors and Schroeder was named for honorable mention at the district competition.

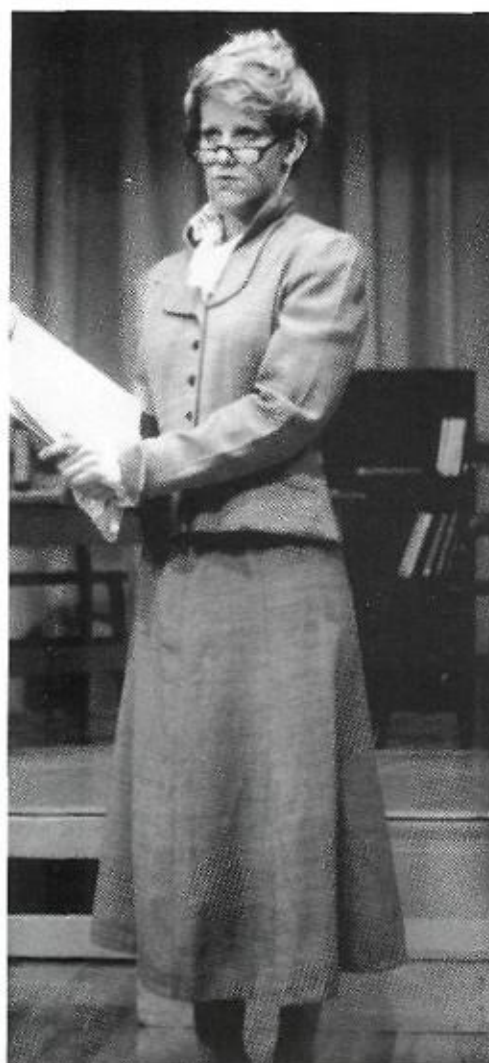

"I enjoyed myself. We did a beautiful, polished job. I was proud of everything overall," stated Ms. Renegar.

Students Speak for Themselves

"I try to instill the ability to analyze and articulate complex ideas effectively in all of my students", said Mrs. Treva Dayton, speech and debate teacher.

Speech was offered in a variety of different classes. First semester Speech I gave students the opportunity to learn key terms and concepts in units of oral communication.

Speech I second semester introduced students to public speaking. Speech II provided students with a more in-depth look at how oral interpretation should be handled. Second semester introduced students to media communication.

In Contest Speech a student could earn up to three full credits competing in speech tournaments against peers interested in the same subject.

In Debate, students who showed an interest in competitive speaking learned the specifics on debate tactics. Students were taught how to research a subject and give an analytical speech on that subject, or defend their analysis.

"I try to instill the ability to analyze and articulate complex ideas effectively in all of my students . . ."

In the 1984-85 speech and debate competitions, Georgetown's debate team took sixth place at the UIL tournament for Standard Debate. In the Lincoln-Douglas debate, the team qualified for TFA state, and in the UIL Regional tournament Rachel Hart placed fifth and Ray Seggern seventh in Lincoln-Douglas.

Last year's speech squad sold Val-o-grams and raised enough money to buy VCR equipment and a camera.

In the past, the speech and debate classes have tried to "teach students skills that are necessary for social interaction important for their careers," said Dayton.

Motivated, busy, happy. What teacher is that? It's Treva Dayton, the Speech and Debate teacher at Georgetown High School. Mrs. Dayton has been teaching for eight years, three of them at GHS. She attended U.T. at Austin and majored in Speech Communication. While attending U.T., she played for the Lady Longhorn basketball team and served as co-captain.

Mrs. Dayton commented, "the students at GHS are extremely well behaved and you can deal with them on a person to person level."

She said she tries to be a good teacher but sometimes has to be more strict than she would like to be. She says, to be a good teacher, one needs to be a person who encourages rather than forces and teaches the students how to learn the information.

There has been confusion and frustration among the students over House Bill 72. "I don't think it should be easier but a shorter period of time for ineligibility," replied Mrs. Dayton. "We need some reform, but the problems were hurried through too fast."

Mrs. Dayton, who is married, and enjoys traveling, camping and reading historical novels, is a good example of her philosophy of life: "Live it. You only get out of life what you put in."

Coach Huckabay patiently waits for his class to settle down.

When Coach Brian Huckabay started college, "The last thing I wanted to do was teach." However, thanks to some super professors at Lamar University who showed him that any subject can be interesting, he changed his major from business and decided that teaching was one of the most challenging jobs he could choose.

Coach Huckabay's philosophy is, "students have to be measured by the effort they put out." He feels that if students give a "100% effort, whatever they do after they finish school they will be successful."

Huckabay tries to impress upon his students not to compare themselves with their peers, but rather to be honest with themselves as to what they are doing as compared to their potential. He feels it's important to have a positive attitude.

Huckabay moved to Georgetown from teaching in Houston for two years, after being offered a coaching position by Head Coach Andy Griffin, Huckabay's former high school coach. Coach Huckabay says he likes GHS because the students are a lot closer than in the big cities.

Huckabay says he has enjoyed the time spent at GHS with the exception of one afternoon where an episode involving "burning clothes in a dryer" left him with the nickname "COACH SPARKY."

"We've been trying to get away from the "just throwing the ball" type P.E. class, but instead on learning sports technique and rules with an emphasis on lifetime sports. (Sports people will use later in life, ie. tennis, jogging, and aerobics)," commented Coach Andy Griffin.

Three semesters of credit are required of physical education and one for health, for GHS students.

Even with House Bill 72, students who participate in team sports (including band and drill team) are able to waive the P.E. classes in place of their athletic credit.

"Most students prefer to be in an activity if they can. They want to do something they are good at and enjoy, rather than endure a required class, like P.E." stated Coach Griffin.

In boy's first semester P.E., flag football, soccer, basketball, and wrestling were all taught. Second semester offered weight lifting, physical fitness, track, and tennis. During the second half of the year, the department worked more on "individual sports."

Lifetime fitness skills were introduced during first semester girls physical education.

Activities such as dance, aerobics, track, and tennis were offered during second semester made an attempt at enhancing basic physical skills and coordination.

Overall, the Physical Education department worked on developing students' physical appearance and knowledge of their body's function.

"Lifetime fitness skills were introduced this year."

'The Paper'

"We try to insure the fact that our graduates will be both well read and able to communicate orally and in written form," said Mrs. Karen Werkenthin, head of the English department.

Though English may not be at the top of most students' list of favorite or easy classes, it does provide a very necessary basis for learning.

As it will be in the future, English I, II, III, and IV were offered to students in three general levels. "English IV will be a required course for graduates of the Class of '88," said Mrs. Werkenthin.

There are several different sides to English taught at Georgetown. Grammar, literature, and learning how to complete the ever dreaded RESEARCH PAPER are all aspects of courses offered.

"Most students have a fear of doing a research paper. We've tried to make the paper less burdening by reducing the weight of its value in the gradebook," commented Mrs. Werkenthin.

"Most students have a fear of research papers . . ."

This past year, the English department experimented with something new, introducing sophomores to the awesome world of the research paper. Requiring English IV students to do both a fall and spring paper was another of the department's attempts to help students "familiarize themselves and learn to use resources in the library to write a paper."

"Some seniors would only take first semester English IV so they wouldn't have to write a paper, and then of course some students graduated early," said Mrs. Werkenthin. The new policy insured everyone the privilege of tackling a paper. "We try to make students feel more comfortable in the library," Mrs. Werkenthin commented with a glint of hope in her eye.

With the Texas Legislature dictating what should be taught in English classes, it leaves little room for teachers to try to make English more interesting.

"Hopefully next year everything will run a lot smoother. Having to adjust to the new school reforms just came too much, too fast," sighed Mrs. Werkenthin.

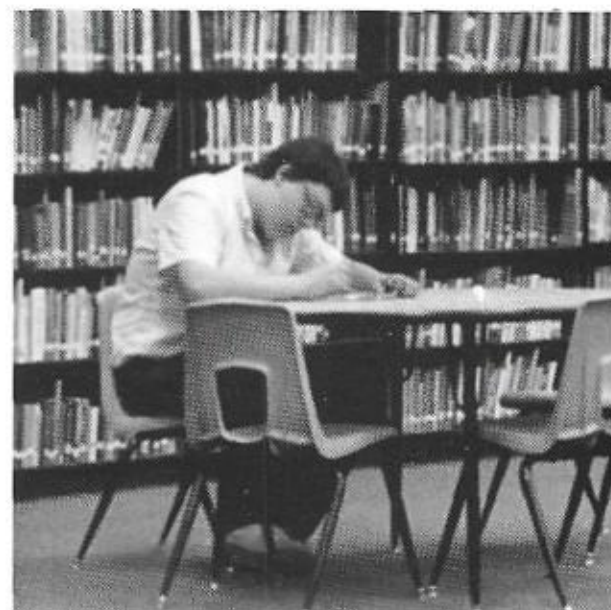

Whether it's studying speech patterns, Shakespeare, Steinbeck, Hemmingway, or experimenting with new ideas, the Georgetown English department brought knowledge to students.

Mrs. Karen Werkenthin, freshman, junior, and senior English teacher, became interested in teaching in "third or fourth grade . . . girls had few choices then. We were encouraged to become teachers or nurses," she said. Since her father was a band director, he was her role model, and helped her make her decision to become a teacher. "I never doubted the decision," she said.

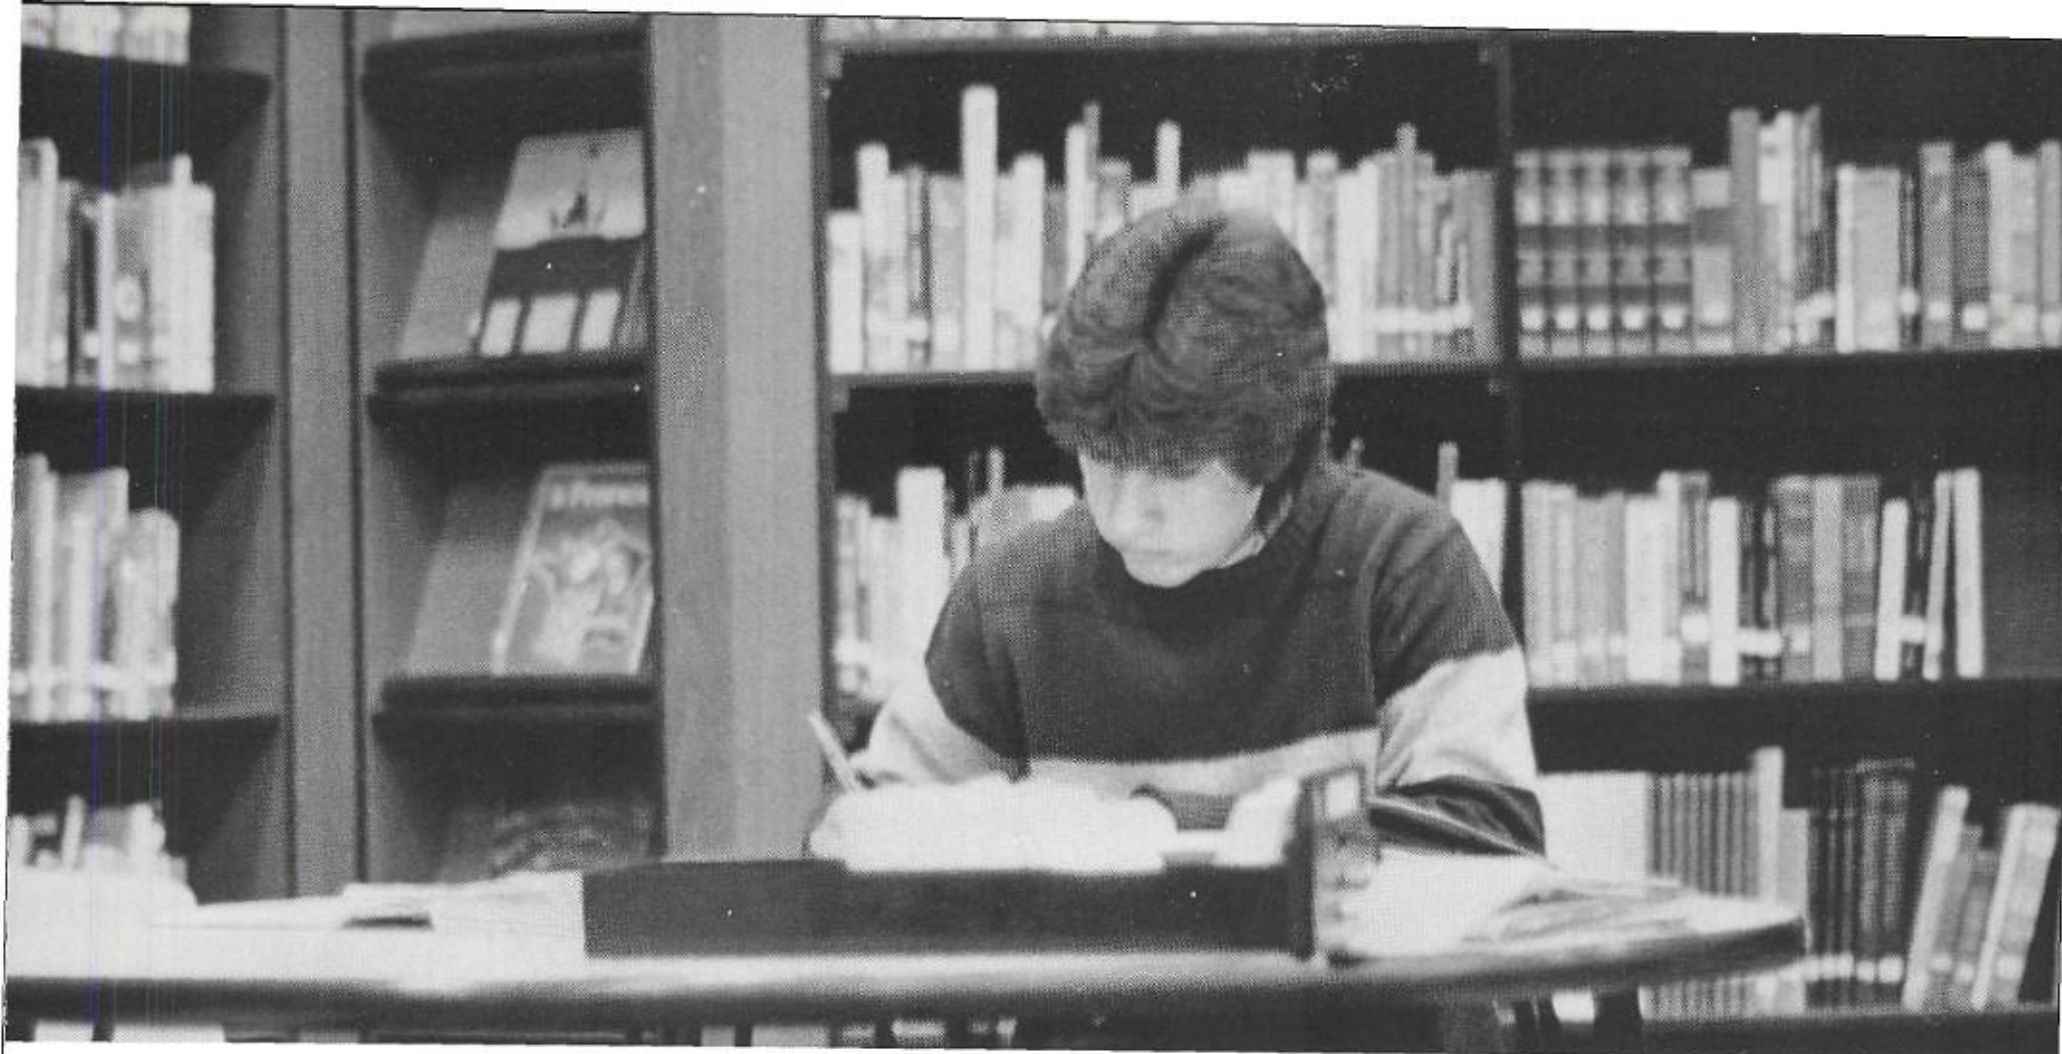

Mrs. Werkenthin explained that her main goal as a teacher is to prepare students for college, so she tries very hard to give her students experiences in high school which she never had, and which she found she needed at the University of Texas.

Mrs. Werkenthin is critical of education reform House Bill 72. "I do not believe (as the recent legislature seems to) in being ruthless. Adolescents are developing in so many areas, not just academically. They are trying to do so many things, and life can get so complicated." She also explained that House Bill 246 has burdened teachers with exorbitant paperwork which will force her to give up one of the three different courses she teaches. "I don't understand why no teachers were made members of H. Ross Perot's committee which imposed so many drastic changes on us."

Mrs. Werkenthin relates to her students through "humor, flexibility, and patience." She realizes that students have their own gift, whether it be football, computer programming, dancing, singing, or English, and is therefore strongly opposed to the "no pass, no participate" clause. "All of us stumble now and then. To tell a child he or she cannot play sports or dance or play with the band for six weeks because he's failed one course with a "69" is too harsh. It's like telling me I couldn't read one single novel for six whole weeks. Ridiculous."

With her views and understanding, she cannot help but be a favorite with her students and gain their respect. Werkenthin said, "I expect students to behave, and they usually do."

Extra! Read All About It!

What's that noise coming from the classroom across the hall from the main entrance to the quiet library?

It's not just one noise, but many; the rata-tat-tat from the typewriters, the shuffling of papers and the brainstorming of enthusiastic journalists.

In that one small room all phases of journalism, including yearbook, newspaper, literary magazine, photojournalism and basic journalism are housed.

For members of the 1984-85 yearbook staff, the room held "memories of the past, hope for the future."

Mrs. Donna Przygoda, in her second year as advisor the AERIE, helped her staff through everything from deadlines to figuring out how the cover should look. "It's your book," was one of her most familiar phrases, but of course, "Let's keep it dignified."

Mrs. Przygoda also taught Photojournalism, which gives students the opportunity to learn the basics of 35mm photography. This past year photojournalism also aided the AERIE staff with many preparations for the yearbook.

Mrs. Pat Easterling taught Journalism I, II, III and literary magazine. Journalism I is for first year writers who become reporters for the TALON. Journalism II is the actual TALON staff, which does the make up and distributing of the paper. Journalism III is composed of TALON staff members who are editors and who have the most experience.

"It's your book . . . Let's keep it dignified."

The literary magazine, WINGS, made its debut as a sub-section sold with the TALON this year. This paper consisted of poems and fiction written by students.

Back to that question of "What's that noise?" Be assured it's just busy student journalists trying to beat a deadline.

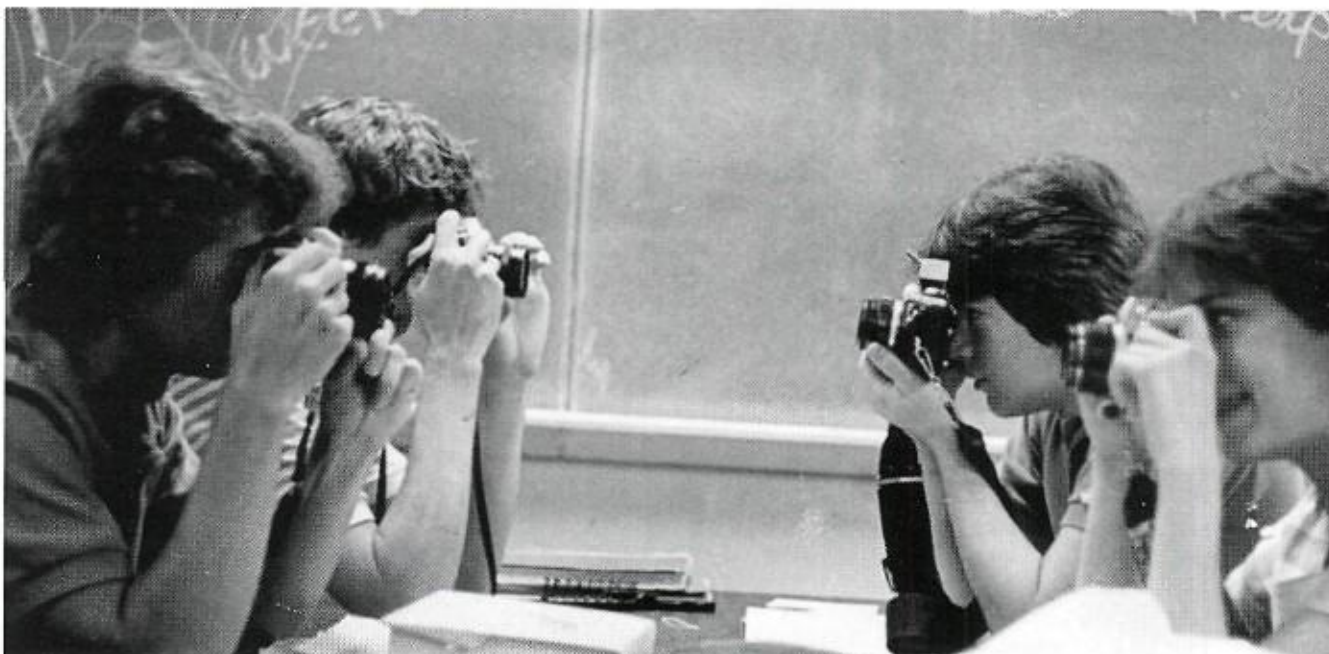

"I wonder where my film is!" says Don Doerfler.

David Ruka works diligently to meet a deadline for the TALON.

Stephanie Jeffries still hasn't learned which side of the typewriter to type on.

Lance Lemanski, Don Doerfler, David Shelhorse, and Teri Anderson aim for perfection

"Mean what you say and say what you mean," is the favorite saying of Pat Easterling, journalism teacher. That's good advice for her Journalism I, TALON and Wings students.

The reason she says she started teaching was because she enjoys teenagers.

"Hopefully by associating with them, (teenagers), they'll keep me from getting old and cranky," she said laughing.

Easterling majored in Professional Writing at the University of Oklahoma. She wrote television scripts in Shreveport, La., before she married.

"I feel as if I've been teaching forever," she says, but actually, she started teaching preschool classes almost 20 years ago and later substituted at Killeen High School when her husband was stationed at Fort Hood.

In 1977, she and her family moved to Georgetown, and she began teaching journalism.

Easterling also taught two Junior English classes at this time, but after one year, she gave journalism up and taught government and history. In 1980, Jack Frost, school superintendent, asked her to take journalism back.

"I'm very excited about the new literary publication, Wings. I'm very grateful that Mrs. Donna Przygoda took over the yearbook and Photojournalism so that I could start the magazine." Wings began as a spin-off from the TALON but has since left the nest to fly on its own.

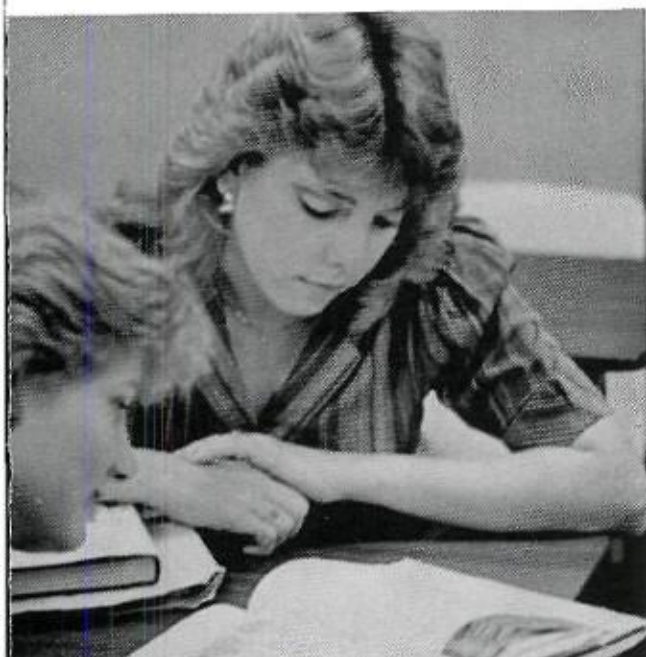

Easterling has four children, Robin, Karen, Mark, and Stuart. Three of them are college graduates with the youngest still in college. Her husband is a retired army colonel. The newest addition to their family is her grandson, Jason.

Foreign Language Takes Its Toll

"Did you hear that, Chris?" Marshall Eidson inquires of Chris Proctor.

Can you tell me what this book is for?" Becky Kalinauskis asks Janet McIntosh.

"I can't handle it anymore!" cry Sheila Hallmark and Becky Kalinauskis.

Most colleges and universities require at least two years of a foreign language. The only problem is passing these courses, and that, some students say, is very difficult.

Spanish, German, French, and Latin are all offered at Georgetown High School with Spanish being the most popular course.

"I took Spanish because it was challenging, and I thought I would use it more than I would another language," said Lance Lemanski, senior.

Madame Jan Stanford, French teacher, tries to instill in her students an appreciation and knowledge of other cultures. She teaches their customs, dress, forms of government, language, monetary units, and history.

"It is challenging to teach someone how to read, write and converse in a language they have never been exposed to," said Madame Stanford.

"It is challenging to teach someone how to read, write, and converse in a language they have never been exposed to . . ."

Teachers and students have different opinions about the languages they take.

"I have never figured out why I decided to take French. I should have just stuck with German, it's easier," said Daniel Rudin, a senior foreign exchange student from Sweden.

"Language reflects culture. The discipline required to learn a language is useful in other kinds of learning," said Senor E. Martin, Spanish teacher.

By: Teri Anderson

Mrs. Yolanda Almaraz, eight year veteran Spanish teacher at Georgetown High school, says she loves to teach. "It's in my blood," she expressed. "I love the challenge of trying to teach someone to speak another language."

A few of her hobbies include camping, roller skating, and shopping. She has two children: Roxanne, is 16, and A.D. is 11.

Mrs. Almaraz loves bright colors, which coincides with her vibrant personality. "But," she said with a look of disgust on her face, "I HATE burnt orange!" Her favorite saying is, "tell the truth."

In her philosophy of teaching, Mrs. Almaraz believes that, "the duties of our educational system are to provide for the continual development and improvement of each student to the extent of his/her abilities so that our graduates can become positively contributing members in our society."

Senior Lance Lemanski, a former student of Mrs. Almaraz, says "Mrs. Almaraz is a strong advocate of class participation and relates very well with her students."

History Students Show Talent

Social Studies plays a big part in every high school student's life. Learning the specifics of events in history to learning present government and contemporary problems is what Social Studies is all about.

Throughout a student's high school career one is not only required to take certain courses but is also given electives. Between the freshman and sophomore year students are required to take a full year of World History; during the junior year American History was required, and for seniors a semester of Government was required. The graduating class of 1988 will be required to complete a full year of government.

"American History was the best class I've had. I remember everything because Mr. Thomas made it so interesting. He let everybody put their two cents worth in," said senior Lance Lemanski.

In World History, freshman and sophomore students traced the development of modern man from prehistoric times. World Wars I and II were covered in this course.

"American History was the best class I've had . . ."

American History picked up with the Civil War and offered a much more specific look on recent events in the American past. The Vietnam War covered in this course brought much controversy among students and teachers. "I thought that Mr. Thomas went around the main issues. I had a debate with him on it!" said junior Marci Gish.

Seniors are given that once in a lifetime opportunity to learn about today's government, not only in the United States but in other nations around the world.

A semester of both Sociology and Economics was offered as electives to students.

From term papers in Government to debating the causes and effects of war, Social Studies gave students the chance to know a little about a lot.

World history teacher Diane Smith explains the history of the world to Kelli Hollifield as she points out the First City on Earth.

by: Stephanie Jeffries

"I enjoy helping people and getting the sense of accomplishment," stated Mr. John Thomas, American History teacher.

Mr. Thomas received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Education in education at the University of Texas at Austin.

Before moving to Georgetown, Mr. Thomas taught in Rice, Texas, at a school with grades kindergarten through eighth grade.

In 1978, Mr. Thomas made two major alterations in his life. He married Susan, who is now an attorney in the State Comptroller's Office, and moved to Georgetown and began teaching in the Georgetown Independent School district.

He taught for two years in the junior high and has been here in the high school for seven years.

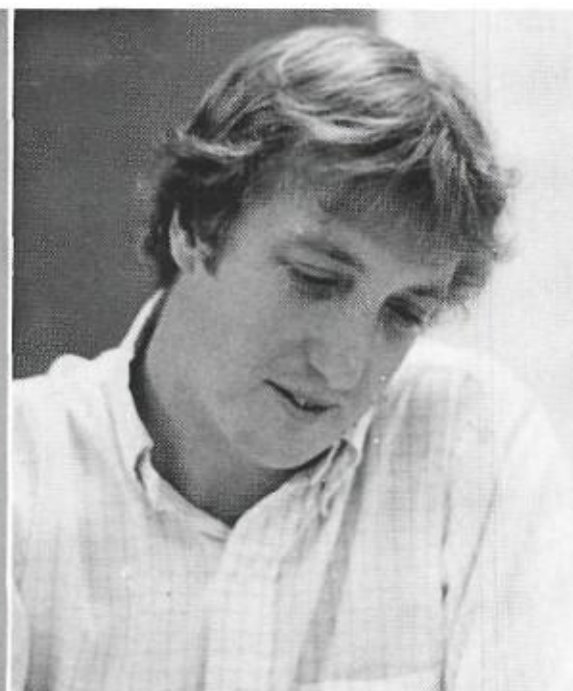

When questioned about what he feels is the best way to relate an idea or concept to students, Mr. Thomas firmly stated, "Just being totally honest, trying to understand them, and treating them as adults as much as possible. I try to listen to them." He feels that for the majority it works.

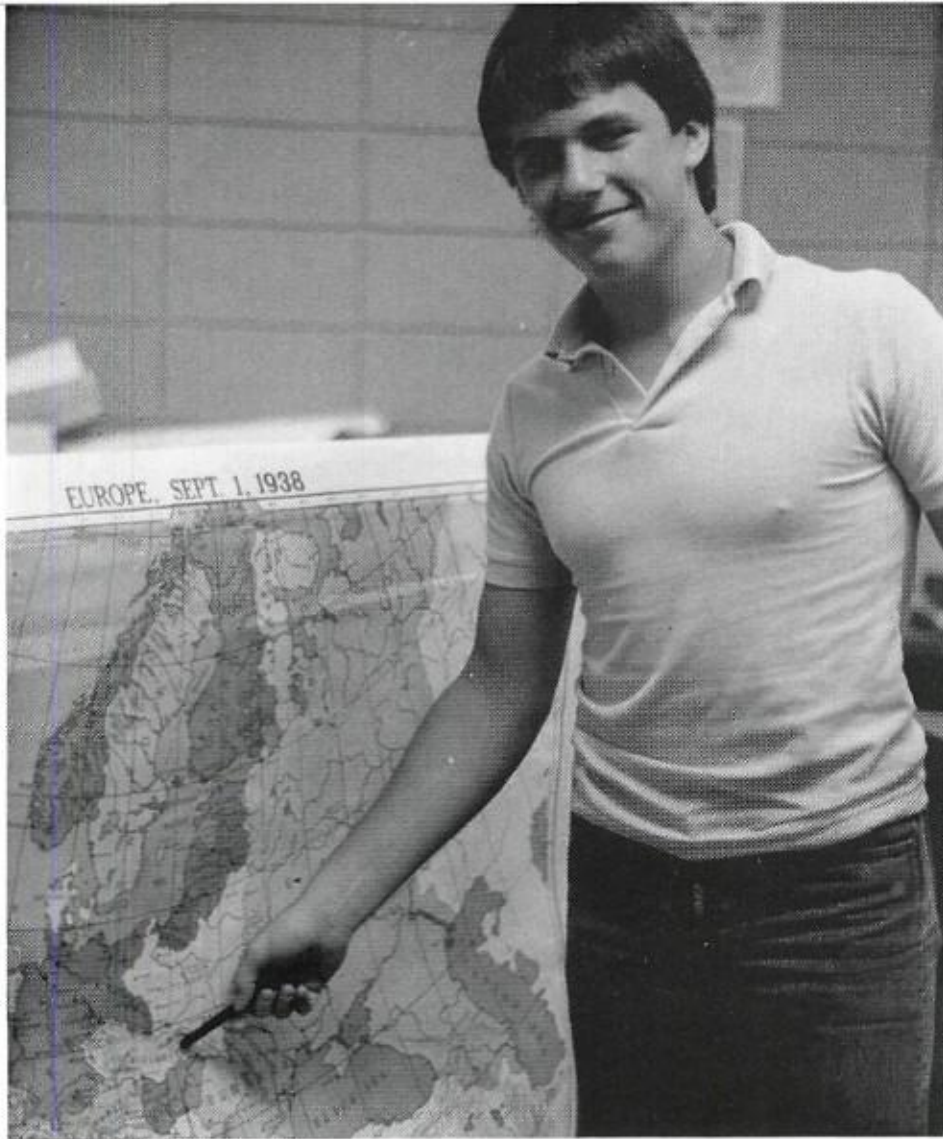

In Mr. Thomas' earlier years, like many other children, his goal was to become President of the United States!

He is now the proud father of two daughters, Amy Elizabeth, three, and Karen Cathleen, who is one.

In his leisure, Mr. Thomas may be found reading a book, playing basketball or softball, and on those few times when he has a vacation, he enjoys traveling.

"I only wish I had more time for reading."

Talent Hungry Crowds Satisfied

The best definition for the Fine Arts Department would be students working together to satisfy a talent-hungry crowd. Fine arts classes include drama, choir, art, band and drill team.

Drama students performed various plays such as Vanities in September and The Barretts of Wimpole Street in January. All plays were under the direction of Ms. Katherine Renegar.

Angela Harris, senior drama student, said, "Most of this year's actors were inexperienced, but with some work, they might make up for the seniors we'll lose at graduation."

"It's a lot of hard work, but it's worth it in the end."

Neal Campbell and Bruce Johnson comprise the teaching staff for the choir. Choir members travel to competitions both as a group and as individual members.

"I have a really good time in choir," commented senior choir member Tricia Rothhammer. "I enjoy the activities we participate in. It's a lot of hard work, but it's worth it in the end."

Robert Kleinhans, art teacher, instructs students in Basic Art to Art IV, which is structured for students who intend to study art seriously in college.

Jimmy Mathis, sophomore Art I student, said, "Mr. Kleinhans is a good teacher. He teaches well and makes it a fun class."

Seniors Angela Harris, Betsy Hebert, and Sherri Schroeder toast the past in "Vanities."

Stacey Sims sings her heart out for the benefit of the choir.

"What could be better than having a job where you deal on a day to day basis with entertainment?" Ms. Katherine Renegar asked. "That's what people do for fun."

Born in New Orleans, Ms. Renegar moved with her family to Austin, at an early age, where she began her acting career. At the age of six she could be seen in the Children's Theatre at the University of Texas.

"I was raised to be very quiet, ladylike, and calm. The only place it was acceptable to be the opposite of those things was in the theatre," says Renegar.

Of her two sisters and one younger brother, the three girls are all current members of the education community. Teaching English and Drama, Ms. Renegar is also the sponsor/director for the drama club, known as "The Off-Broadway Players."

"The epitome of acting is teaching," she says. "Drama is a painless way to become an expert in a lot of different subjects."

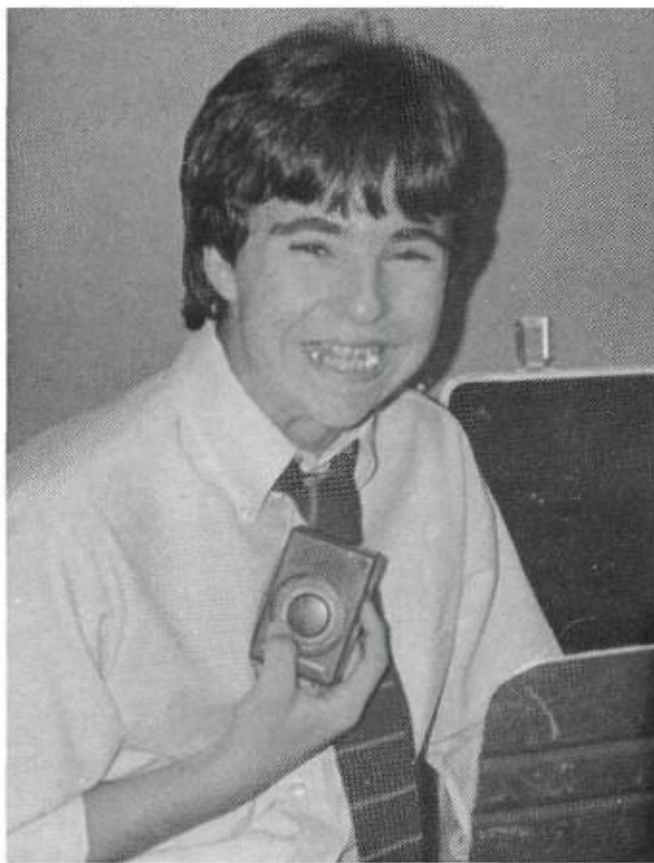

Georgettes pose with pride while they accept much deserved applause for a well executed high kick routine.

"What do you mean the game's been canceled?" cried Sarah McCullough, flag captain.

Blair Smith proudly shows off his new matching braces and metronome.

Band director Rodney Klett instructed over 180 students in precision instrumentation throughout the year.

Michelle Moland, senior band member, said, "In band, we work long hours, and it pays off at State Marching Contest and in UIL Competition." Once again the band's hard work was rewarded with another Sweepstakes victory and its fifth straight State Championship.

The Georgette Drill Team was sponsored this year by a new director, Ms. Jane Webb, who, with her new methods, led the drill team to one of its most successful and organized years. The group traveled to San Antonio for contest and introduced more prop, novelty, and jazz routines, but kept up the crowd pleasing high kick dances.

Kayla Smith, second year member, was quoted saying, "My two years of drill team have been not only a challenging experience but also rewarding and fun."

"In band we work long hours, and it pays off . . ."

Cutting Up In Crafts

"Industrial Arts is the practical arts education," said Mr. Robert Foster, counselor for Georgetown students. This department also includes courses which allow students to learn vocational trades.

The American Industrial Arts Association has said, "Industrial art is that phase of general education which offers individuals an insight into our industrial society through laboratory-classroom experience." Industrial arts is the artistic branch to industry.

Crafts and drafting are the only industrial arts taught at Georgetown High School. Mrs. Susan Kleinhans teaches Beginning Drafting and Mechanical Drafting. Beginning Drafting is of course, the class for learning the basics of drafting. Mechanical drafting expands on these basics but goes into piping, electrical systems, structures, maps, topography, and professional drawing practices. If a student is interested in mechanics and machine design, this is the class for him. Architectural drawing also expands on the basics and goes into building codes, electrical plans, air conditioning plans, theory of design and construction.

"Drafting is a class you can go into without being interested in it and yet when you finish the class, you can take what you've learned and pursue a professional career."

Sheila Hallmark, a senior drafting student, said, "Drafting is a class you can go into without being interested in it and yet when you finish the class, you can take what you've learned and pursue a professional career."

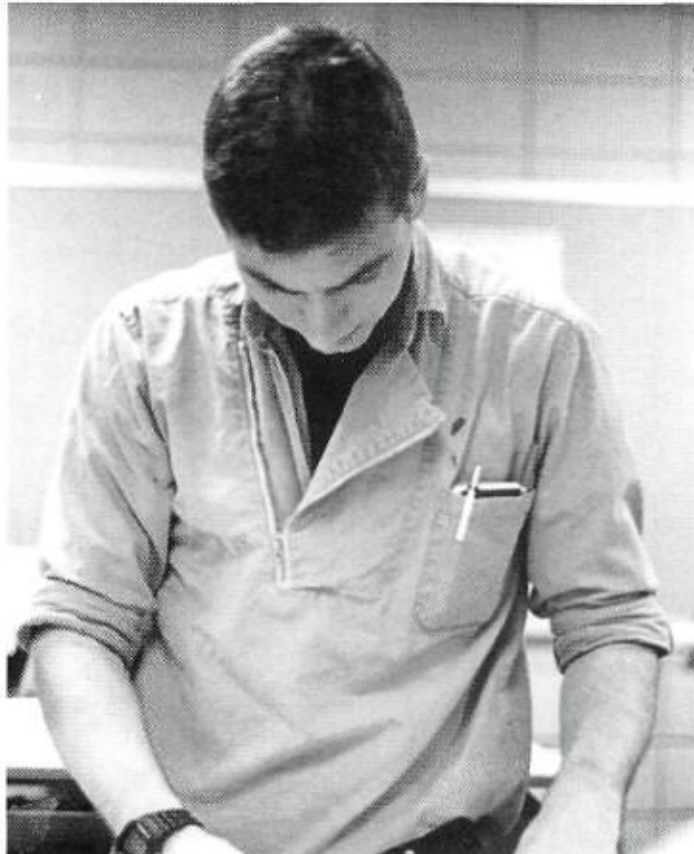

Crafts is taught by Mr. Joe Moehring. The first nine weeks is given to introduce the student to the aspects of leather crafts. The second nine weeks goes into ceramics. Crafts is only one semester or one half credit.

"Gischihan" a.k.a. Joe Moehring"

by: Lance Lemanski

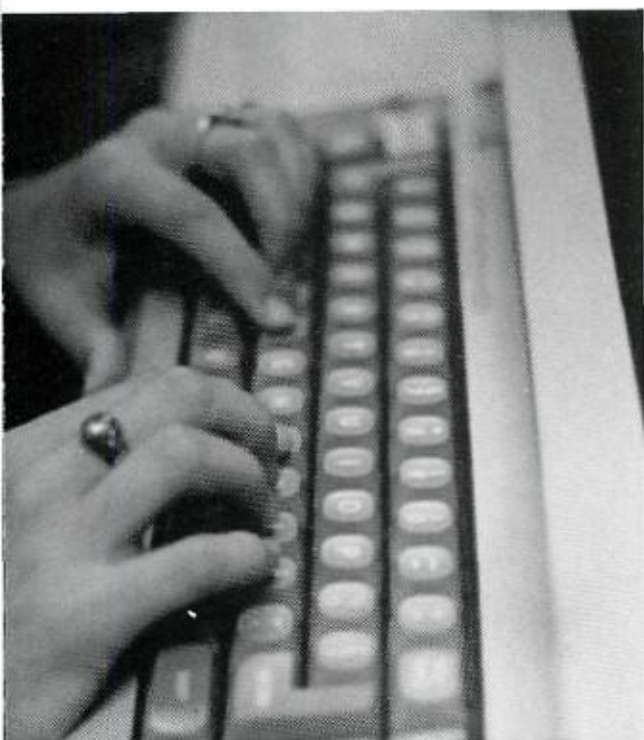

Little did Mr. Joe Moehring know when he was given his Indian name "Gischihan", which means "he who works with his hands," that he would spend a major part of his life teaching students to express themselves through art, crafts, and drafting. This was Mr. Moehring's twenty-fifth year in teaching, and even though he has a B.S. and a M.E.D. in Industrial Arts from Southwest Texas State University, he considers himself "Not an artist, but a motivator." Mr. Moehring has an uncanny knack for relating to students. He feels he is a man of "rapport", someone who can have a good time and yet still be firm and in control. If one were to ask Mr. Moehring what his philosophy of teaching is, he would pause for a moment, grin, and exclaim, "If you don't love kids, stay out of the school business. Because they'll drive you out of your gourd."

Mr. Moehring is an excellent source of first hand information of the history of Georgetown High School because not only has he taught here for six years, but he graduated from here in 1954. He said the school has changed drastically over the years. The building itself is new and much bigger than the old central campus that used to be the high school. Of course the number of students has increased, almost by seven times. In his eyes, the students have not changed as much as the times have. The biggest and most outstanding difference to him is participation in pep rallies. When he was in school it was hard to find twenty people not participating in the pep rally. This is quite different from today when it's difficult to find twenty participating!

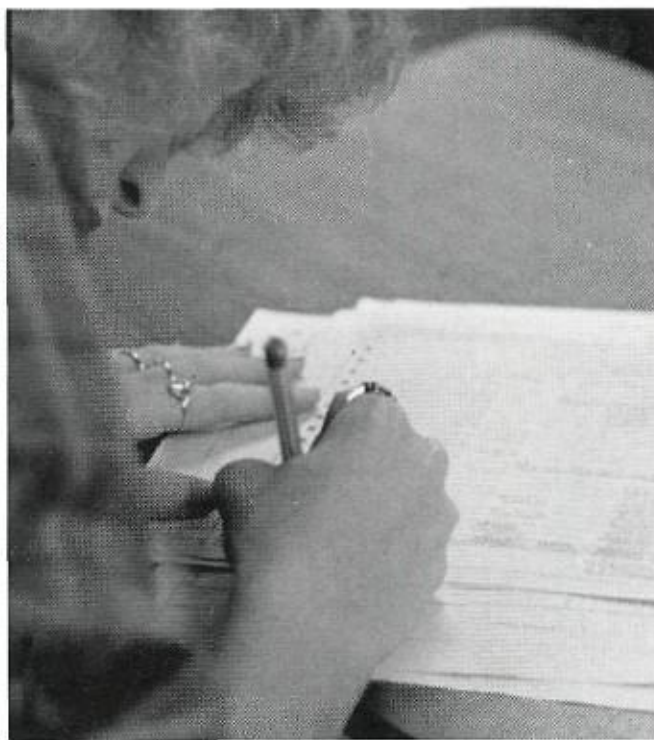

Mr. Moehring has many other activities going on outside of school. He referees football games, like to hunt and fish, and loves to cruise around on his motorcycle. Though teaching has been a large part of his life and he enjoys it, he does not know how much longer he will stay in it because of the small salaries teachers are presently receiving.

Business Offers Keys To Learning

Upperclassmen know their keys.

Tiffany Parker learns how to interpret data.

Typing offers unisex opportunities.

Robert Honstien types intently.

The Business Department promotes the teaching of basic business skills. "We try to help develop an interest in the business world," stated Mrs. Sarah Kay Martin, business teacher.

Students were offered several different courses, including Accounting, Typing I and II, Personal Typing, Business Machines, Business Law, and Record Keeping.

Typing, Accounting and Business Law seem to be the most popular classes," said Mrs. Martin.

With the exception of one class, all the same courses will be offered in the 1985-86 school year. Business Machines taught by Mrs. Pam Dishberger will not be offered again. In place of the lost class a new one will be gained, Personal Business Management, and it will also be taught by Mrs. Dishberger.

Although some students might have ventured into a business class hoping for an easy elective, most were more than likely surprised. "Some students find a business class easy because they either have an aptitude for the subject or a special interest in it," commented Mrs. Martin.

With a general class load of 25, business classes were found to be both interesting and educational.

Sarah Kay Martin, who teaches personal typing, business law, record keeping, and one class of English II, says that teaching is a challenge because the students, "keep me thinking and on my toes."

The thirteen year teaching veteran came to Georgetown two years ago after stints in eight other schools including: Bastrop, Corsicana, Killeen, and Troy. Georgetown appealed to her because of the location, which is close to her family and friends, and the "good academic reputation."

Mrs. Martin attended Bartlett High School and enjoyed business courses she took there. She said that her business teacher in high school had an influence on her.

The graduate of Mary-Hardin Baylor feels that House Bill 72 causes too much paperwork, which is added to the already abundant number of papers that teachers have to keep up with from assignments they give their students.

As one of many teachers who have to "float" from classroom to classroom, Mrs. Martin feels that although sometimes the transfer from one class to another is difficult, it can be accomplished with little trouble.

She says, "if you're going to get anywhere you have to work at it, it doesn't come easy."

Do Frogs Really Finish Last?

The word "science" conjures up many different images. Depending on one's interests, it can mean anything from mad scientists to toying with electricity, to a student dutifully carving open an embalmed frog. Whatever the chapter or subject of study, students learned how the world around them worked, what it was made of, and why things work the way they do.

This past year, science was offered on three major levels: introductory, which deals with basic concepts; average; and honors, for those students who excel in science.

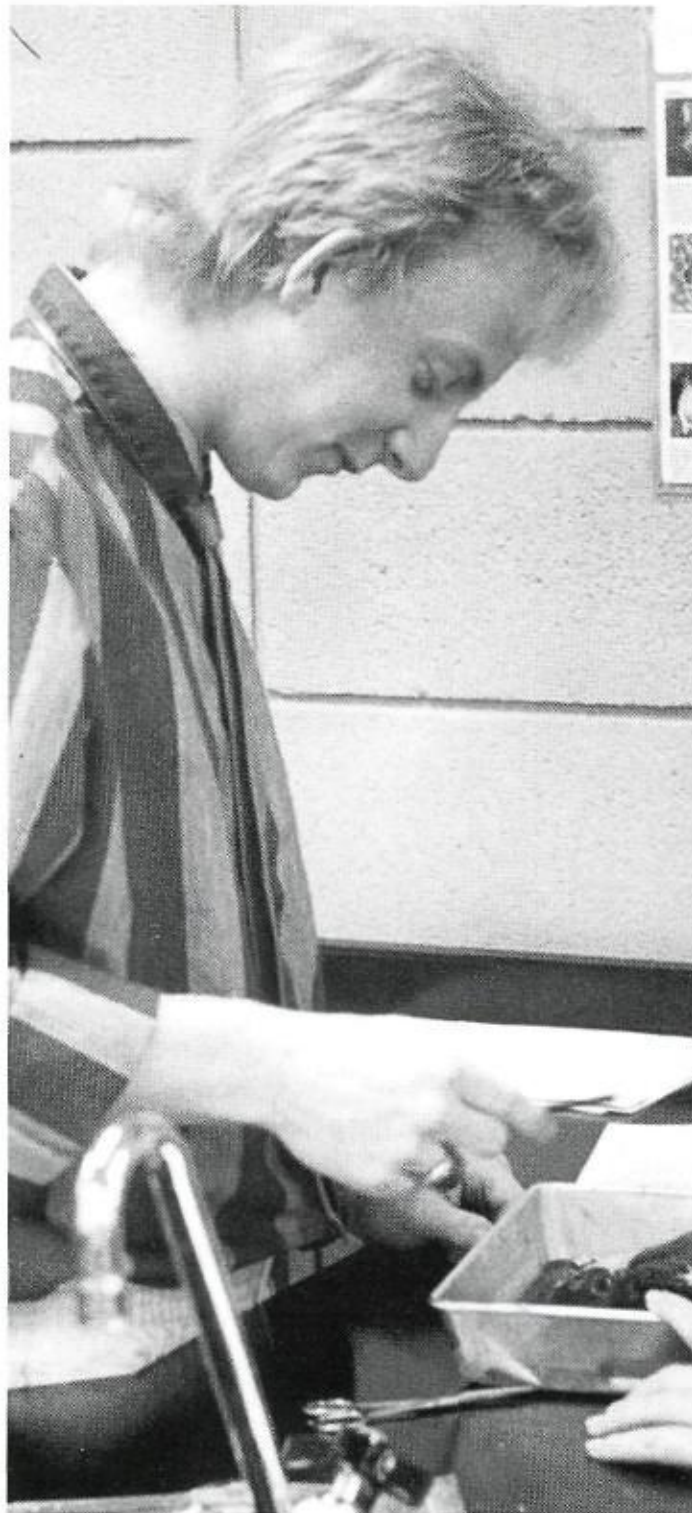

When Science Department head James Tippit was questioned about his feelings on House Bill 72 and how it affected his department he stated, "We (the teachers) have a lot of unnecessary paperwork, but I think that it is good overall and will help improve education in general."

In the Science Department, Biology II and Physics seem to be more popular with each passing year.

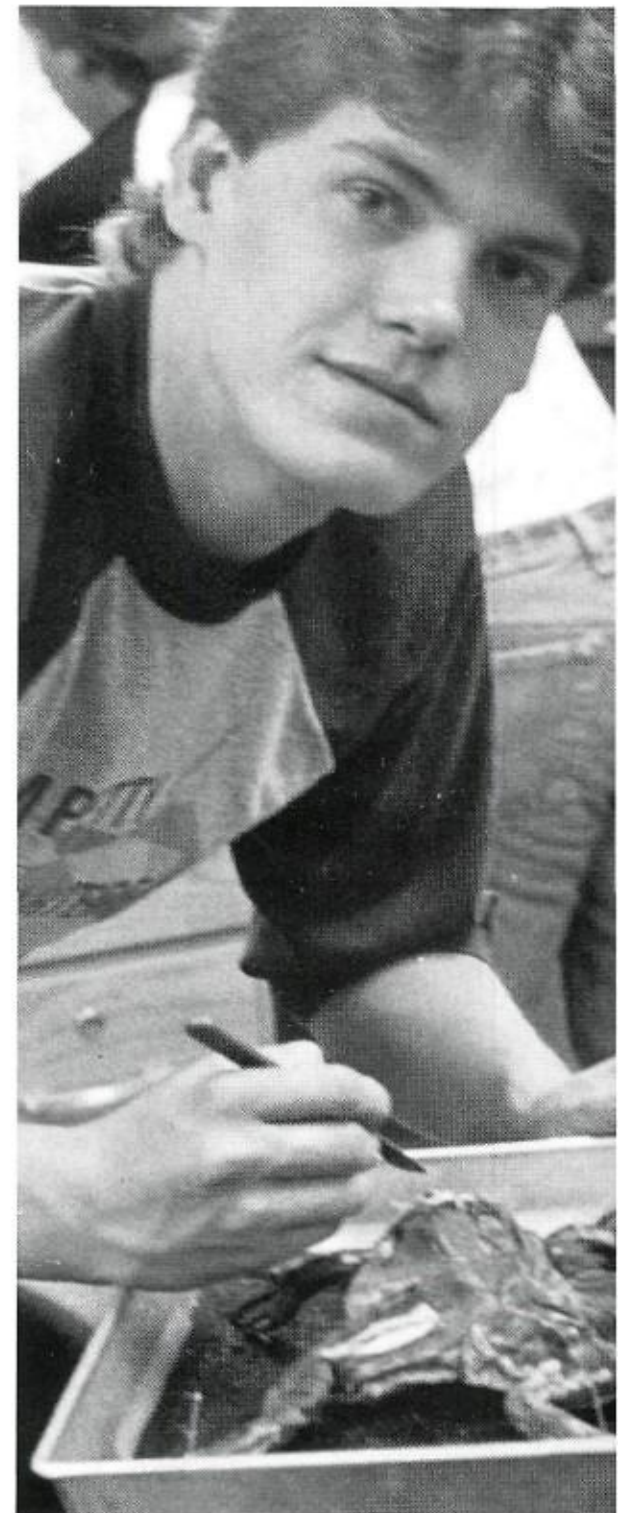

"Science conjures up many different images."

Though every class has its special or different projects, as in Col. Joe Nix's insect and flower collections, honors students are challenged with more experiments and higher expectations. Toward the end of the year, honor students are given a work packet to do at their own pace. They can make whatever grade they want determined on their own drive, ambition and effort.

With the school population on the constant rise, more space became necessary. In the spring, expansion of the science wing neared completion. The wing promised new science labs and classrooms for the 1985-1986 school year.

"There are never any dumb questions," is an often used quote in the classes of Colonel Joe W. Nix, who teaches biology.

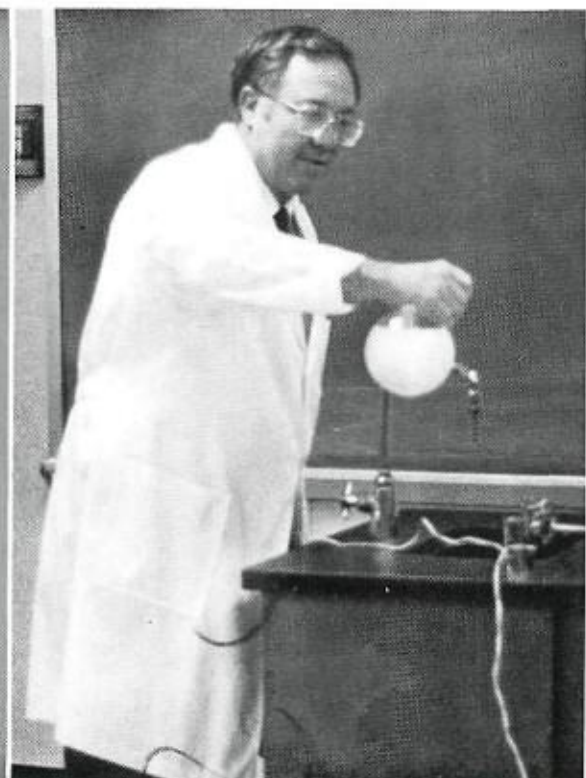

Col. Nix has traveled all over the world to countries many of us only dream about, Korea, Japan, Germany, Spain, and Thailand, to name just a few. The Col. even lived in Pakistan for two years.

His wife, also a teacher, teaches math and computer science to fifth grade students at Round Rock Elementary School.

In his family also are a daughter, a sophomore at Southwestern University, and a son, a junior at Pflugerville High School.

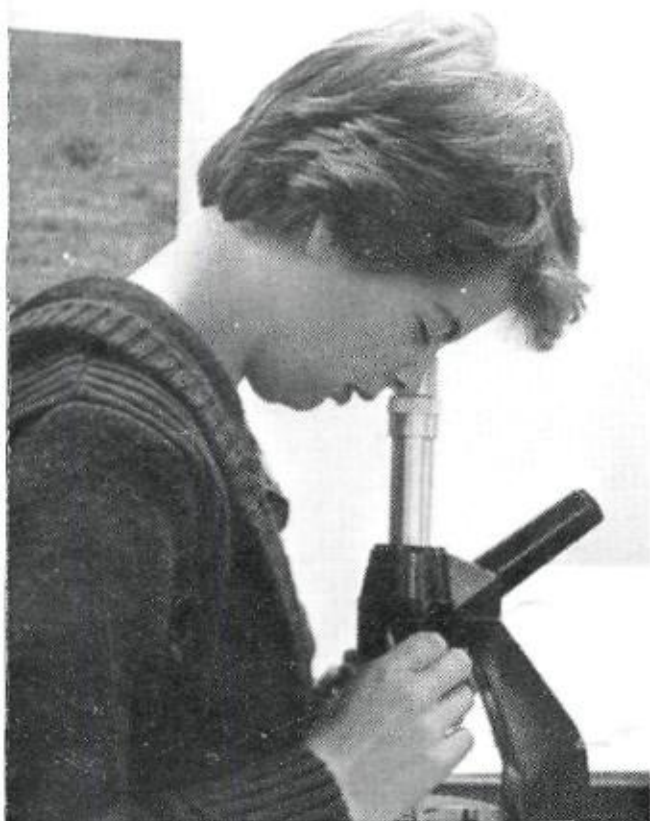

Col. Nix has not only one degree, but three: A.B.S. in education from Midwestern University, a M.E. from the University of Southern Mississippi, and a Ph.D. from Columbia Pacific.

With all of these degrees, he could choose many careers, but he chooses to teach. Why? "I feel that students need more male role models," he says, "and I want to contribute something back to society and education because of what education has done for me."

"I wonder if he's going to blow up the school!" says Scott Knudsen.

Mathematics Lives Forever in our Minds

"Math is the basis of civilization. Without it, science and technology in our civilization would be nothing," said math teacher, Mrs. Sherry George.

Some students felt differently. "Math courses are important for your life but sometimes tend to be a little difficult for those who are not mathematically inclined," said Junior Christy Kassner.

Math courses ranged from fundamentals of math, which offered basic and general skills of math, to trigonometry, elementary analysis, and calculus, which prepared college bound students for upcoming challenges. Graduation requirements state that students must have two full credits, whereas colleges require three to four years of solid mathematics.

"Math helps students think."

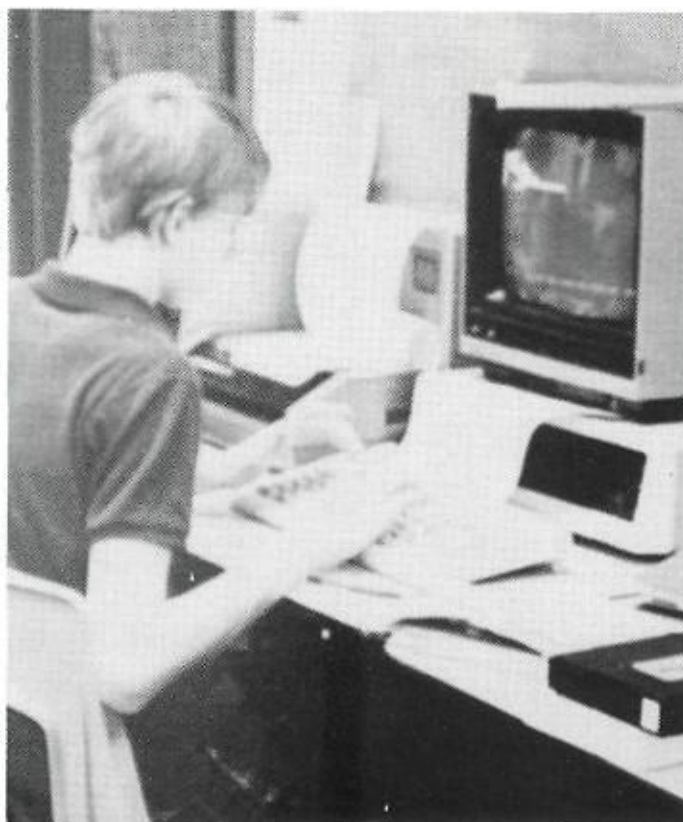

"Math is taught for many reasons, but the one main reason is that it helps students think," said George.

Math teachers strove to make the classes interesting even though many students were not "too excited to be there."

As in past years, geometry students constructed geometric figures using only a straight edge, a compass, and a pencil. "It was one of the hardest projects I ever had to do," said sophomore Courtney Kasper.

Not only geometry students did special projects. Consumer math students produced commercials.

"Math may not be real exciting or even an easy class, but you still have to do it," said Junior Marci Gish.

Mrs. Mac casually explains the assignment for the day.

By: Justin Sharp

Who is that crazy algebra teacher in room 113? Why that's Mrs. Mac! As one walks down the senior wing of the school, a person may see some pretty strange things going on in room 113.

Mrs. Tally McAferty, an eight year teaching veteran of Georgetown High, is known for her special teaching style throughout the student body.

"My dad lived here at one time, so I knew Georgetown was a nice place," said McAferty, giving her reason for coming to Georgetown.

Her hobbies are "antique collecting, knitting, needlepoint, and Fred and George."

Fred, her husband, is a lead mechanic for a helicopter company, and her son, George, is a freshman.

She teaches, "because I love kids and working with them." If she was not a teacher she said, "I think I would like to be a fashion designer or a buyer for a clothes store."

Concerning the new education laws, and whether or not it has helped or hindered students, she said, "I think they are well intentioned, but I think it was too much too fast. Some students are helped because the new laws make them work harder, and they are more concerned about their grades. Some students are hindered because they may never have a chance to participate in extracurricular activities."

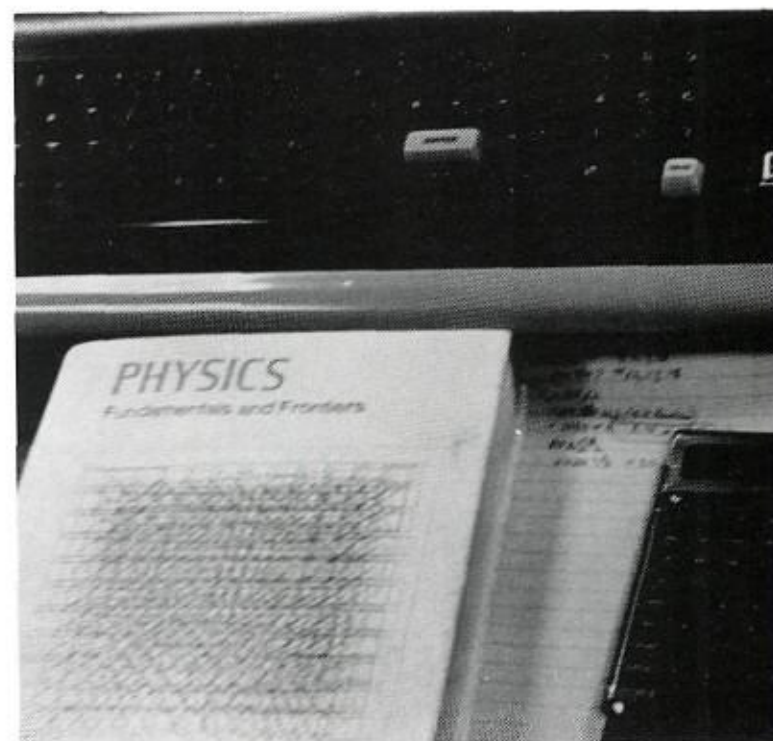

Finally, the big question. Why does Mrs. Mac act so crazy? "Part of my job is to motivate. Bored students are not motivated. If I can keep a student's attention for one more minute, maybe in that minute, I can teach him one more thing."

Now a word to all the students of Mrs. Mac. In the future when we are at the table helping our children with their Algebra II homework, remember these immortal words of Mrs. Mac, "Whenever you have a fraction in an equation multiply by the L.C.D."

Cory Mitchell and Rock Brown work together to complete an assignment in computer math.

Students Learn How To Live

In any garage, restaurant, or department store in Georgetown, chances are that one would find teenagers who have been trained in the vocational department at this school.

Many of the vocational classes deal with the home. Classes like homemaking, child development, consumer education and home management give students a good idea of how to plan their households.

Welding, Auto Mechanics, General Construction, and agriculture give students hands-on experience, providing valuable technical skills.

"By the time my students leave my class, they should be able to go into a garage and work," said Jesse Lozano, Auto Mechanics instructor, "I try to develop an interest in auto mechanics in my students because it is a field that will be around for a long time to come."

Students who plan to work in an office may take word processing to develop office skills. They are taught to communicate with other people, how to handle duplicating processes, how to file, and other necessary skills.

Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) is a two hour class requiring students to maintain a job. Most students in this program work half of the school day, either in the morning or after lunch.

Preparing students to enter the job world is a continuous goal of the vocational department at Georgetown.

Many students in Georgetown High School owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Arnim Humphreys. He is the teacher who has helped them find, and keep jobs, and that fact allows them to have cars, nice clothes, and extra spending money. Mr. Humphreys is the Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) instructor. This class is not only a work-program, but an exploratory class into work situations.

Mr. Humphreys came to Georgetown in 1972 as a government teacher, but at the suggestion of Superintendent Jack Frost, Mr. Humphreys became the ICT director.

A native of Del Rio, Mr. Humphreys has attended Southern Methodist University (SMU), Uvalde Junior College, San Angelo State University, and graduated from the University of Texas at El Paso. He is married and has two children.

In his teaching, he has always stood on the thought, "The boss may not always be correct, but he is always the boss," and tries to instill this concept in his student's minds to insure their success in the working world.

Klein, Rosenblad Named First Aerie Athletes

The 1984-85 year was one of great performances by Georgetown athletes. For the first time, the Aerie Staff has selected two of these outstanding athletes as "Aerie Athletes of the Year." They were chosen for their versatility and performances in their many sports. The staff takes pride in congratulating Lisa Klein and Ricky Rosenblad as the first "Aerie Athletes of the Year."

Lisa Klein, a junior, has played an important role in three varsity sports. As a starter on the varsity volleyball team for two years she attracted the attention of the other district coaches as they selected her to Second Team All District two years in a row. In basketball, she was equally important. Averaging seven points, she was selected to the 1985 First Team All District. Never resting between sports, Lisa went directly into track and field showing her skills in the 400 relay, 200m run, and hurdles, and the triple jump. At the district meet in Leander, Lisa placed second in the hurdles, helped her 400m relay team to a second place finish by running fourth leg, she placed fourth in the 200m and third in the triple jump.

Although Lisa has seen many memorable moments in her high school sports career, her most memorable occurred during the 1983-84 basketball season. This team, on which she started, went on to win not only district, but zone and bi-district.

To anyone who followed any sport at GHS, it is likely that the name Ricky Rosenblad became a household word in 1985. This senior lettered in football, basketball and baseball and was chosen to the First Team All District in each sport.

In football, Rosenblad was an all district standout in both offense, and defense and was selected an "All Centex Punter."

In basketball he was a two year All-District player, leading the Eagles to the district crown in '85 with a 10.6 scoring average and 7.2 rebounds a game.

As a junior he hit 406 and was a first team all-district selection as a designated hitter. Being named first team all-district as a Senior, Rosenblad capped his senior year with first team all-district honors in three sports.

With a career as embellished with highpoints as his, it may seem difficult to distinguish the most memorable, but he says he "will always remember beating Westlake twice in basketball during my senior year."

Westlake Injunction Ends Eagle Season In Mist Of Controversy

A fired up Eagle football squad traveled to Killeen September 7 to begin the season. The Eagles were defeated, but the Georgetown defense let the Kangaroos hop to only one touchdown. Eagle defensive end Kirk Glass received an ankle injury during the game but soon recovered.

When the Round Rock Dragons came to town September 14 everyone expected excitement and no one was disappointed. The Eagles beat the Dragons in the 47th annual match up between the two teams. Quarterback Everett Williams threw a pass to Warren Rose who went down with a dislocated elbow, but that drive lead to a fieldgoal. Rose's injury was a costly loss for the Eagles offense. Rose was out for the next three games.

Against Copperas Cove the Eagles outplayed the Bulldogs the entire game, but still walked away with a loss. "What this game proved is that statistics are often deceiving; it's the scoreboard that counts," stated Head Coach Andy Griffin.

The Eagles played Waco University on September 28. Despite the cold weather and the blowing rain, the Eagles held a convincing victory. The Trojan's defense didn't stop the Eagles. Richard Gordy said, "It felt good to share in the team's effort in a winning ballgame," since Gordy had been out because of a knee injury the two previous games. The Eagles rushed and passed 258 yards.

The annual rivalry between the Eagles and the Belton Tigers had a depressing end. Although the Eagles led 6-0 until halftime, Belton recovered a fumble which gave the Tigers the lead. Coach Griffin said "My boys never gave up, they stayed in there and fought hard."

Homecoming Oct. 12 brought the Bastrop Bears to Eagle Field to a defeat. Vince Fisher scored a touchdown for the Eagles which gave the lead to Georgetown. Coach Griffin said, "We played good defense but offensively we slacked off. We ended up making the plays we needed though."

The Eagles traveled to Westlake to play the Chaps Oct. 19, but that night they were overcome. The Eagles had 152 yards of total offense, 113 rushing and 39 passing.

The Eagles beat Leander on Oct. 26, making Eagle fans very proud of what they saw. Donald Sedwick scored a touchdown when Warren Rose created a line opening for Sedwick to follow, which was a good part of the offensive line. The Eagle's victory over Leander stopped the Lions from a chance at post season play.

The Eagles brought down the Taylor Ducks, keeping their playoff hopes alive. John Spencer intercepted three passes and the Eagles scored twice. In the second quarter on Sam William's reception of a 35-yard pass from Everett Williams and a Duane Newsom one-yard run, Richard Gordy capped the Georgetown scoring in the last quarter with a 48-yard run. Gordy paced all rushers with 100 yards.

In their last regular season game against Del Valle, Nov. 9, the Eagles clinched their chance to participate in the playoffs. This was their third straight shut-out game. Having big plays for the Eagles were Richard Gordy and Vince Fisher with long yardage touchdowns and Eric Anderson with an interception.

Toward the end of the season, controversy arose with Westlake over an injunction of their quarterback, Todd Maroney, and the number of years he played in high school. Georgetown, Taylor and Leander brought a lawsuit against U.I.L. The outcome was the admittance of three teams from the south zone to go to the playoffs. Taylor and Westlake played for second place at Memorial Stadium Nov. 16, Taylor came out ahead, 14-7, putting Westlake out of the playoffs. Georgetown went on to play Jefferson Moore of the north zone.

In the playoff game against Jefferson Moore, Donald Sedwick put the Eagles ahead with a diving touchdown, then Sam Williams' catch pulled the score within three points with eight minutes left, but the Lions held the Eagles' offense for the Eagle defeat.

"Y'all are still number one in my eyes!" Senior Donald Sedwick, following the season's final game.

Freshman Football Possesses Guts, Winning Attitude

The Freshman Football Team demonstrated its strength with three shut-outs and a 5-5 season record. The fighting Eagles beat Round Rock 2-0, Waco University 24-0 and Leander 14-0.

Sept. 6 the Freshman team traveled to Killeen and lost 0-7.

Against Round Rock Sept. 13, the team scored the only points when nose guard, Kirk Robinson's block on the Round Rock center caused the snap to sail over the punters head and out of the end zone.

The Eagles gave up the next game, Sept. 20 in Copperas Cove, 0-18.

The Eagles shut out Waco University Sept. 27, with a score of 24-0. Craig Williams scored two touchdowns and Shane Ellis ran in one from two yards out, followed by Koby Kielman's pass to Miguel Vasquez in the end zone for a two point conversion. Cody Wilkerson blocked a punt that led to the second touchdown when recovered on the five.

The freshmen lost Oct. 4 to Belton 6-14. Craig Williams scored the only touchdown in the third quarter.

Against Bastrop Oct. 11, the Eagles won 14-6.

The Eagles fell 13-6 against Westlake Oct. 18. Scoring on a ten-yard touchdown pass from Kielman to Mark Ramos. Running back Craig Williams was credited with running the ball hard.

During one of the freshmen's shut-out games, the Eagles smoked the Leander Lions 14-0.

Against Taylor Nov. 1 the freshmen lost 6-33.

The team ended its football season Nov. 8 with a 13-8 victory over Del Valle. Fullback Shane Sills scored both Georgetown touchdowns from three yards out. Both scores were set up by long pass plays from Kielman to Mark Ramos.

Boys Soccer Has 'Rebuilding' Season.

Coach Mark Townsend termed the boys' Varsity Soccer Team as having a "rebuilding" season with few seniors, in 1985. The boys team began district play Dec. 1 against the Reagan Raiders. The team lost 1-3 with Mark Seeley scoring for the Eagles.

Against Austin Johnston, the boys lost 2-4 with Seeley again scoring both goals.

December 8, the varsity beat McCallum 3-0 with Seeley scoring twice and Ruben Gomez scoring once.

The team traveled to Burger center Dec. 11 to take on Austin Travis, and lost 2-5 with Jose Carrizales and Jason Carter each scoring once.

Two goals by Seeley in the first half led the varsity boys to a 2-0 shut-out of Austin Anderson at House Park on January 15. Sam Williams had four saves and Bill Lindstrom had an assist on Seeley's first goal.

Against Crockett, December 18, the boys lost 5-1. Goalie Sam Williams collected eight saves and Forward Mark Seeley scored the Eagle's only goal. Coach Townsend cited Mike Pratt as the Outstanding Player.

The Eagles played Westlake January 12, defeating the Chaps 1-0. This was the first time the boys soccer team had ever beaten the Chaps.

January 14 the Varsity lost to Westwood 1-0. Williams was credited with seven saves and Todd Naiser played good defense for Georgetown.

Against Round Rock, January 19, the boys tied 1-1. Seeley scored the goal and Manual Torres had 11 saves.

The J.V. also had a rebuilding season. The team consisted of thirteen freshmen and was coached by Mark Townsend.

Varsity Girls Get a Kick Out of Soccer

The Girls Varsity Soccer team coached by Diane Harvey had six returning seniors in 1985.

The girls started off their season against Austin Reagan, with a 2-1 victory. Kristen Curtis and Lori White scored for the team. Dec. 3 the Lady Eagles wiped out Johnston 10-1. Janet Bohanan scored four goals. Against Austin McCallum Dec. 8, the varsity team registered a 2-0 shut-out. Kristen Curtis and Luci Marrow scored the goals.

The team traveled to Burger Center to take on Travis Dec. 11, and came home with a 4-1 victory. Janelle Sibley and Luci Marrow each scored. Against Austin Anderson, the girls listed their first loss with a score of 2-5. Janelle Sibley scored both goals.

Against Crockett on Dec. 18 the varsity girls walked away with a 4-1 victory. Janelle Sibley scored two goals and Janet Bohanan and Luci Marrow scored one each. Westlake beat the girls Jan. 12, 5-1, giving the team a 5-6 record. Kristen Curtis had the only goal in the Westlake encounter.

The Lady Eagles lost to the Round Rock Dragons by a score of 2-1, and Jan. 14 the Westwood Warriors jumped out to a 10-0 win over the Lady Eagles. The team finished fourth in the district.

Victory Over Westlake Ends In Probation

The Varsity Boys Basketball team had a season that ended in an unexpected way. The team started off in preseason attending three tournaments. In the Georgetown tourney the Eagles took second place sweeping past Hays Consolidated and Copperas Cove before losing to Belton in the championship game.

Starting off in district play, the Eagles took on Leander, January 8. The Eagles beat the Lions with a score of 76-46. David Moehring was the leading scorer with 18 points.

January 11, the Taylor Ducks came from behind in the fourth quarter to defeat the Eagles 66-59. Senior post Ricky Rosenblad, scored in double figures with 12 points.

Georgetown put together a precise offense and vigorous defense to overwhelm Del Valle, January 15, 80-55 in a crucial matchup. Rosenblad and Eric Anderson were the high scorers tallying 20 and 16 points respectively. Against Bastrop, January 18, the Eagle team scored early and often, cruising to an easy 58-38 victory. David Moehring had a good night scoring 11 points.

January 21, the Eagles had a hard fight and a hard loss when they fell to Westlake 54-53. Moehring led the Eagle effort with 14 points. Against Leander, January 24, The Eagles bombed baskets all night long, taking the victory with a score of 88-63. High scorer was Eric Anderson with 19 points.

The Eagles put themselves back in the thick of the playoff race with their 70-57 win over Taylor, January 28. Moehring led with 11 points, five of them free throws. The parents of the team were introduced before the game as part of the Annual Parents Night. The Eagles gave their parents plenty to cheer about as they whipped the Ducks and moved into a second place tie in district.

Against Del Valle February 3, the Eagles won 51-50 with Ricky Rosenblad putting in a shot at the buzzer.

February 5, David Moehring's 16 points lead Georgetown to a convincing 69-44 victory over Bastrop.

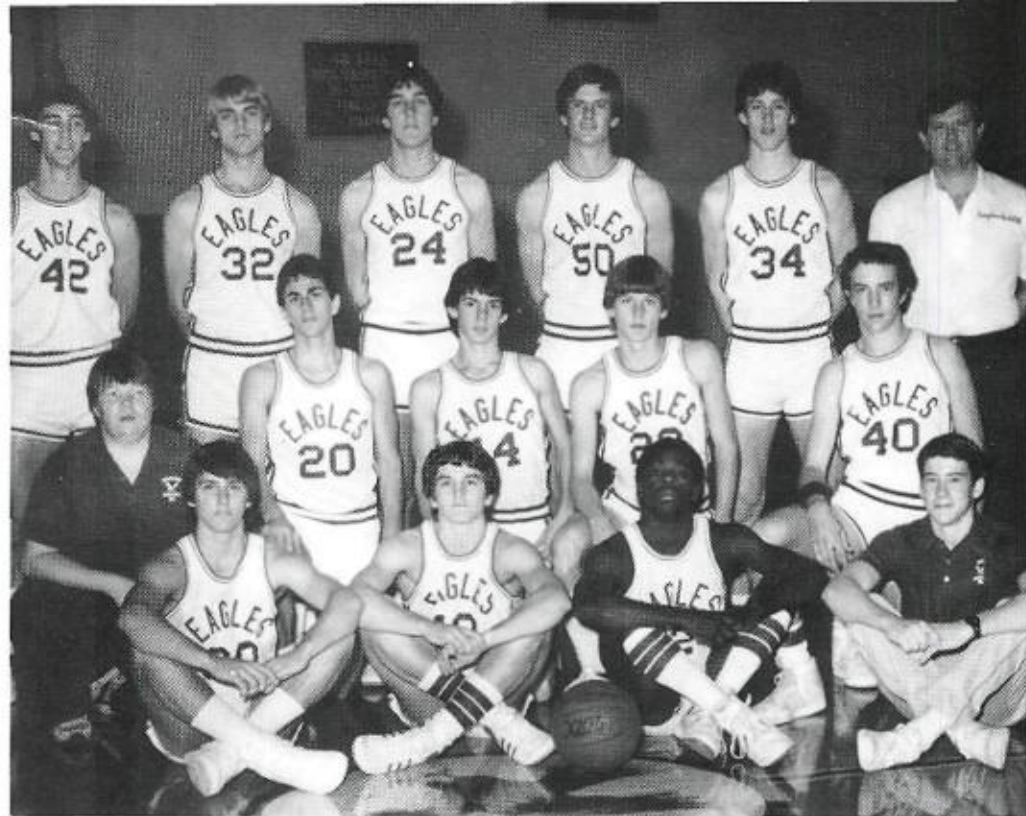

February 8 brought excitement to Eagle Gym when the Eagles took on arch rival, Westlake. Georgetown dominated the Chaparrals in every area of a physical seesaw battle to take a conclusive 75-68 victory. The victory over Westlake ended the regular season with both teams tied for first with 8-2 zone records.

Though the teams shared the 6AAAA South Zone championship, they had to play again in Leander gym to decide playoff pairings. The Eagles once again came out of the battle on top, winning 70-68.

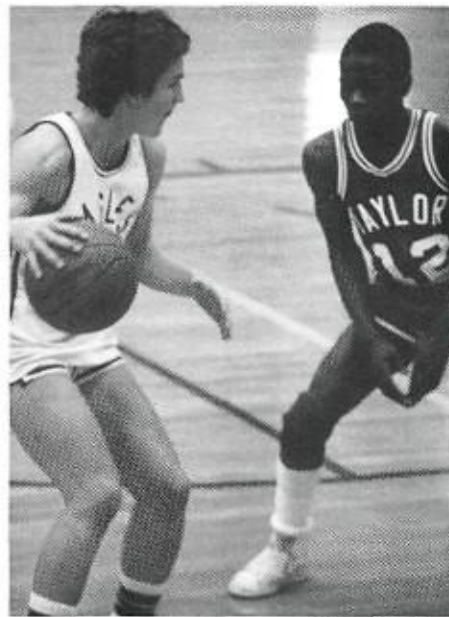

The Eagles went on to play Jefferson Moore for the District Championship. The game was held in Eagle Gym, February 15. The Eagles stayed behind the first half but came back in the second half to secure the win, 64-57. Moehring had a great night scoring 24 points.

February 22 the Eagles traveled to Waco to take on the Seagoville Dragons for Bi-district. The Eagles lost by one basket. Rosenblad was high scorer with 15 points followed by Anderson with 14 points. Seagoville went on to be in the state semi-finals.

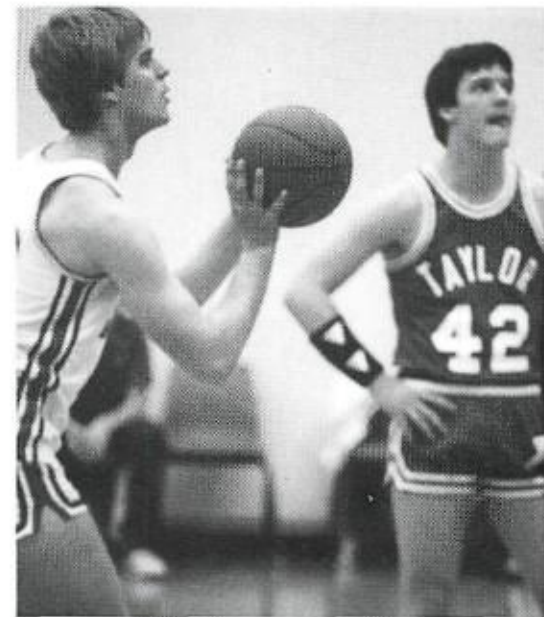

All five starting players on the Varsity Basketball Team, as well as their coach, Maurice Varnell were honored as 6-AAAA South Zone all-district competitors David Moehring and Ricky Rosenblad were tabbed as first team All-stars, while David Peak was picked as a second team All-Star. In addition, Eric Anderson and Nathan Douglas made the honorable mention team. Varnell, in his sixth year at the Eagles' helm, led Georgetown to both the South Zone and Overall 6-AAAA championship and was chosen Coach of the Year. Georgetown was the only South Zone team to have all five of its starting players honored in the coaches poll.

Both the Georgetown and Westlake High School Varsity Boys' Basketball Teams were put on disciplinary probation for a year by the University Interscholastic League following the Eagles' 70-68 win over the Chaparrals in the District 6-AAAA South Zone playoff game held in Leander, February 12. The UIL's Executive District Committee's decision came because of riots that broke out between Georgetown and Westlake fans.

"At the close of the ball game, both student bodies went on to the floor supposedly to congratulate one another," Superintendent Jack Frost explained.

It was at that point, following the latest chapter in the longstanding Georgetown/Westlake rivalry, that heated words were exchanged and fights erupted.

Frost and Athletic Director K.Y. Owens stressed, however, that the basketball players were not involved in the fight itself, adding that much of the blame belonged to older youth who had graduated from high school in the past couple of years.

"Our team is on probation for something they had nothing to do with," Frost said "I'm very embarrassed and concerned."

Varsity Girls Dribble to Zone Playoffs

The Girls Varsity Basketball team began its season strong, winning the first five games, and only losing five games out of 18, before district competition began. The team placed in all three tournaments it entered, taking first in the Westwood Tourney.

In district play, the Lady Eagles played Bastrop and won 54-24, making their record 1-0 in district competition.

Against Westlake they were defeated 52-37. Leading scorers were Lynn Cole with 16 and Tessy Feist with 10 points.

The girls barely pulled passed Leander 55-53. Cole and Feist each had 12 points.

Taylor wasn't much of a challenge to the Lady Eagles. The team had 21 steals and 17 assists. Individually, Cole had 19 points and Kelly Poarch had 17 points. The final score was 64-25.

Del Valle went down to a 78-51 defeat at the hands of the Eagles. Cole again led the team with 22 points, Shelly Holan added 19 points.

The team beat Bastrop 51-31 with Holan leading in both scoring, with 16 points, and rebounds with 10.

The Lady Eagles lost to Westlake for the second time 48-31. The Eagles had a low scoring night with Cole only scoring seven and Holan six points.

Leander surprised the Lady Eagles with a score of 61-52. This loss made the district record 4-3.

Georgetown soared over Taylor 68-28 with Cole and Poarch each with 14 points.

The Eagles beat Del Valle 47-36 to take the second place seat behind Westlake in South Zone 6AAAA competition.

The season ended when the team was defeated by the defending state champions, Waco-Richfield by 61-35 in the zone playoff game. Lynn Cole scored the most with 17 points. The Eagles ended with a 6-4 district record and a 19-9 overall record.

Lady Eagles who were chosen for all-district teams were; first team: Lynn Cole, Shelly Holan, Sharyln Kelley, Lisa Klein; second team: Tricia Rothhammer, Kelly Poarch; and honorable mention: Tessy Feist.

J.V., Frosh Hang Tough, Take District

The Freshman Girls Basketball Team had a memorable season. The team ended play with a record of 21 wins and only six losses. These young Eagles won the championship of the Round Rock Tourney and third place in the Leander Tourney. The team became District Champs with a district record of 9-1. The freshman girls were coached by Richard Sivertsen.

The Junior Varsity Girls Basketball Team looked strong, ending its season with an 11-3 record. Their 7-2 district record showed promise. In the Stephen F. Austin Tournament, the Lady Eagles defeated three 5A teams to take the championship. The girls were coached by Beth Jesurun.

Cellar Dweller Eagles Blast 30 Home Runs

The Georgetown Varsity Baseball Team had an up and down season, unfortunately ending in the down column. Although the win-loss record wasn't impressive, the hitting stats showed 30 home runs on the year. Nine members contributed to this record. The team graduated 10 seniors.

The first district game with Bastrop was a frustrating disappointment for Georgetown when the team lost 16-9. The Eagles were ahead 8-2 going into the seventh but the Bears rapped out five hits, and took a 9-8 lead. The Eagles committed twelve errors, gave up twelve hits and twelve walks, most of them coming in the last two innings to blow what looked like a sure district opening win. The biggest play for the Eagles came in the third on a single by Don Shelton, an error by the Bastrop left fielder and a two run homerun by first baseman Ricky Rosenblad.

The Eagles played their best game against Westlake April 2. Even though it lost, the team looked good. The team's two runs came on a home run by Rosenblad, who drove in Todd Fagg, who got on base on an error. Left fielder Todd Morgan had an excellent catch which saved a sure Westlake home run over the fence. Second baseman Fred Uhlman and centerfielder Frank Burgess both had diving catches.

April 4, the team traveled to Leander for a clash with the Lions. Rosenblad boosted two homeruns in an 8-2 victory.

Against Taylor, April 9, the Eagles came out strong in the first inning with a triple by Shortstop Shelton for the first run, coming in to score on an error. Brian Stone got on base with a single and was knocked in on Marshall Eidson's double. The Eagles' third run came in the fourth inning on Stone's home run. The Eagles just couldn't stay up with the Ducks and went on to lose 10-3.

The Eagles played Del Valle April 12, but weren't able to get on the boards with their hitting. Todd Mantz was the pitcher to start, he walked the first four batters, then lefthander Mike Richard took over, but was still unable to beat the Cardinals losing 7-0.

The Eagles had a close game with the Bastrop Bears April 16. In the first inning, Fagg had a single, knocking in Shelton who got on base by a walk. In the fourth inning Stone hit a smashing home run. In the fifth inning, Fagg hit a double knocking in Shelton and Burgess. The Eagles had a good offensive game but their defense couldn't hold off the Bears, and went on to lose 6-8.

Against Westlake April 18, the Eagles lost 16-3. All three of the Eagle points came from home runs. In the third, senior second baseman Robert Martinez blasted one over, in the fourth, Stone with his fourth home run, and in the fifth inning, Travis Walden busted the ball for a home run.

Mantz picked up his second pitching victory of the year and centerfielder Burgess drove in five runs, including a two run homer in the fifth inning, to lift the Georgetown Varsity Baseball team to an 11-5 victory over the Leander Lions April 23. Georgetown got power at the plate from Eidson and Rosenblad, who returned to the lineup after missing four games because of an injury. Eidson, who moved up from eighth to second in the batting order, hit 2-5 with a pair of RBI's while Rosenblad also drove in two runs and scored twice himself.

The Eagles did not fare nearly as well against Taylor, April 26, as they were held to just five hits while the Ducks stroked 11. Georgetown kept the game close, trailing only 4-2 until Taylor unloaded with a seven run blitzkrieg in the bottom of the sixth inning. Pickard was tagged with the loss on the mound, while Walden smashed a home run.

Jack Smith closed out his pitching career with a 3-1 victory over Del Valle on April 30, knocking the Cardinals out of the playoffs. Smith, picking up his first victory of the year against four losses, went the distance for the Eagles in what had otherwise been a disappointing season. Duane Newsom took a pitch over the leftfield wall for his first home run of the season.

Georgetown led the district in home runs with 30, easily outdistancing Westlake's next best mark of nine home runs. The Eagles had problems hitting the ball consistently this year and closed out the season with team batting average of .273.

Ricky Rosenblad led all Georgetown hitters with a .426 average, including six home runs, and 20 runs batted in.

Todd Fagg, despite a slump in the second half of the season, still finished the year with a very respectable .378 average, seven homers and 30 RBI's.

Shelton batted .372 with four home runs and 19 RBI's while Stone, who played at shortstop and DH as well as right field, hit five home runs and ended the year with a .250 average.

The other twelve home runs came from Don Shelton and Travis Walden each with four and Duane Newsom, Robert Martinez, Scott Pope and Frank Burgess each with one.

Offensively, the Eagles scored 175 runs over the course of the season, while their opponent crossed the plate 219 times and batted a cumulative 318 against Georgetown pitching. With the exception of Smith, however, the Eagles had junior Matt MacKay, and sophomores Mike Rickard, Mike Hehman and Todd Mantz returning to the line up next year.

The Eagles ended the season with a record of 6-16, and in district, 3-7. Senior first baseman Ricky Rosenblad made first team all-district and junior centerfielder Frank Burgess made second team all-district. Most Valuable Player for the varsity was Ricky Rosenblad and captains chosen were senior catcher Todd Fagg and senior shortstop Don Shelton.

Golf Teams Make Regional Meet Memorable

The Boy's Varsity Golf Team qualified for the regional tournament, but had a surprising upset. Tournament results for the boy's team started slow with a third place finish in Bastrop. Next, the team traveled to Lampasas and received a second place trophy. The meet to follow was held at Southwestern where the team took first place. The next three tourneys ended with the Eagles taking first at Belton, third at Killeen, and fourth at Bryan. The team qualified for the Regional tournament with Kirby Kielman as Individual Champion of District 5AAAA and Glenn Graham taking fifth in the district meet.

After shooting a dismal 320 on the first day of competition, the Georgetown boys rebounded with 216 on day two and then stormed back to take a third place playoff away from the Westlake Chaparrals in the regional tournament held in Brownwood on May 1 and 2.

Leading the Eagles was senior Shawn Newberg, playing one of his best tournaments ever with a sixth place finish of 154.

Right behind him was Glenn Graham, shooting a pair of steady 78s for a two-day total of 156 on the links.

Georgetown's anchorman, Kirby Kielman, had a frustrating weekend in his third regional appearance. Kielman was hitting good drives but the putts just weren't falling and he ended with a total score of 161.

Also competing for the Eagle boys were sophomore Doug Peak, who shot a 170, and freshman Randy Thomas, who shot a 179.

In Girls Golf, the varsity took second place at the district tournament. The number one team included Sherri Mikal, Vikky Hooper, Tessy Feist, Amy Remmert, Marianne Crouch and Shelli Kasper. The number two team included Wendy Price, Kristi Bateman, Nicki Folta, Malissa Endsley and Beth Christian. The tournament results ended with an eighth place in Austin, fifth in Lampasas, first at Southwestern, first at Leander and fourth at Belton. They qualified for the regional tournament with Amy Remmert receiving third place in district.

The Lady Eagles, with only one senior among them, shot a two day total of 828 in Brownwood to take eighth place in a field of ten. They beat out Leander, who had defeated them earlier in the year, as well as Snyder.

Freshman Amy Remmert led Georgetown with a 192. She was followed by senior Alisa Richards with 199, sophomore Vikky Hooper with a 215, junior Tessy Feist with a 224 and sophomore Sherry Mikal with a 227.

Coach Joe Crouch was pleased with the Lady Eagles' season, saying, "We've got an awfully young team and one of our goals was to qualify for regionals which we did."

"Hit'em straight and watch for snakes."

Boys Track, Williams Break Own Records

The Boys Varsity Track Team finished sixth place in district. The team had 13 graduating seniors. Sam Williams established a new Georgetown High School record in the discus and two other Eagles placed in the top ten as the boys' track team tuned up for the regional meet in Brownwood.

Williams, who set the old GHS record with a 151-foot 17-inch loft last year, shattered his own mark with a throw of 158-feet, 9 inches. The competition was tough as Williams, despite his record breaking throw, still only came up with a third place finish.

Nathan Douglas, whose high jump of 6-feet, 2 inches was tops in the district, equaled that mark for a fifth place finish.

Vince Fischer, Georgetown's other first place finisher from the district meet at Leander, placed seventh in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 40.5.

Track Takes Five All The Way To State Meet

The girls track teams had a successful year with the freshman and junior varsity teams ending up with the District Championships and the varsity placing second in district.

At the regional meet, the Lady Eagles qualified five girls for the state meet. Those participating at regionals included: the sprint relay team of Loretta Fishar, Francine Babicki, Tracy Robinson, Kerri Sheffield with their best time of 50.1, the 800 meter relay team of Sandy Shephard, Loretta Fishar, Trisca Rose, and Tracy Robinson with their best time of 1:45.5 placing them fifth at regionals.

The mile relay team of Kerri Sheffield, Julie Etheredge, Jennifer Plental, Trisca Rose, Sandy Shephard, and Tracy Robinson.

In the 800 meter run, Keri Sheffield qualified for state, in the 400 meter run, Tracy Robinson broke the school record with a time of 56.06, and in the 100 meter hurdles, Lisa Klein set a new record of 14.7.

The field event participants qualifying for regionals were the high jump with Tricia Rothhammer jumping 5'2" and the shot put where Lynn Cole threw 40' 5 1/4" for another new school record.

At the State Meet the mile relay team broke another record, running with a time of 3:57. Kerri Sheffield also went to the State Meet, Running in the 800 meter run receiving sixth place.

Coaching these girls to state included head Coach Sue Davidson, Coach Beth Jeserun, and Coach Robert Sivertson.

Swim Team Breaks Records

A much improved Georgetown High School Swimming team took many trophies and broke many records in 1985.

The district swim meet in Austin resulted in several new school records and a host of qualifiers for the regional meet in San Antonio.

The girls' 200 medley relay team of Trista Grammer, Anna Burgeson, Kristen Hollingshead and Julia Allen took first place in the district meet, spurred by Allen's 25:64 anchor leg. The winning time was 2:17.22.

Allen also qualified for the regional meet in the girls 50 freestyle and 100 freestyle. She had a time of 25.99 in the 50 free and 57.84 in the 100 free.

Hollingshead also qualified in the 200 individual relay and 100 butterfly and Grammer qualified with Allen in the 50 free. Grammer was a qualifier in the 100 backstroke.

The boys' 200 medley relay team qualified for regionals and broke a school record in the process. John Helms, Frank Hauser, Paul Oliver and Kent Morrison set the new mark with a time of 1:55.84. Helms also qualified in the 200 individual medley.

A much improved Swim Team took many trophies and broke many records in 1985 . . .

Oliver eclipsed his previous best in the 500 free, recording a time of 6:27.26 and qualifying for the regional meet. Helms qualified in the 100 backstroke while Hauser's 1:08.34 in the 100 breaststroke took 36 off his previous best.

Barry Spikes also qualified in the 500 free with a 7:05.23 time.

Morrison and Oliver competed in regionals as part of the boys' 400 medley relay team along with Spikes and Todd Dutton. They finished with a time of 4:00.75.

In the boy's 200 meter freestyle Mike Landers took eight seconds off his best time and, along with Spikes and Bill Lindstrom, qualified for regionals.

Missy Smith qualified for regional in the 200 freestyle with an overall time 2:56.23.

Smith was also part of the girls 400 freestyle relay team that qualified for regional with a time of 5:31.08. Heather Hearn, Janet Heilmen and Debra Mossman were other members of the 400 free team.

Kathy Mason lowered her time to qualify in the 500 free with a time of 8:12.00.

Though they did not qualify for regionals, Ty Hickman and Oliver Harden both improved their times in the 100 free.

During the regional swimming competition, Julia Allen finished with fourth and fifth places.

Allen broke school records in two qualifying events with a time of 56.08. in the 100 yard freestyle and 25.57 in the 50-yard free.

Jeanna Helms also recorded a personal best in the 100 yard free with 1:05.18 clocking.

Kathy Mason in the 500 free, Missy Smith in the 200 free and Kristen Hollingshead in the 200-yard individual medley also trimmed time off their previous best efforts.

The boys' 200-yard medley relay team trimmed three seconds off their time in the district meet and set a new school record in the process. John Helms, Frank Hauser, Paul Oliver and Kent Morrison recorded a 1:52.46.

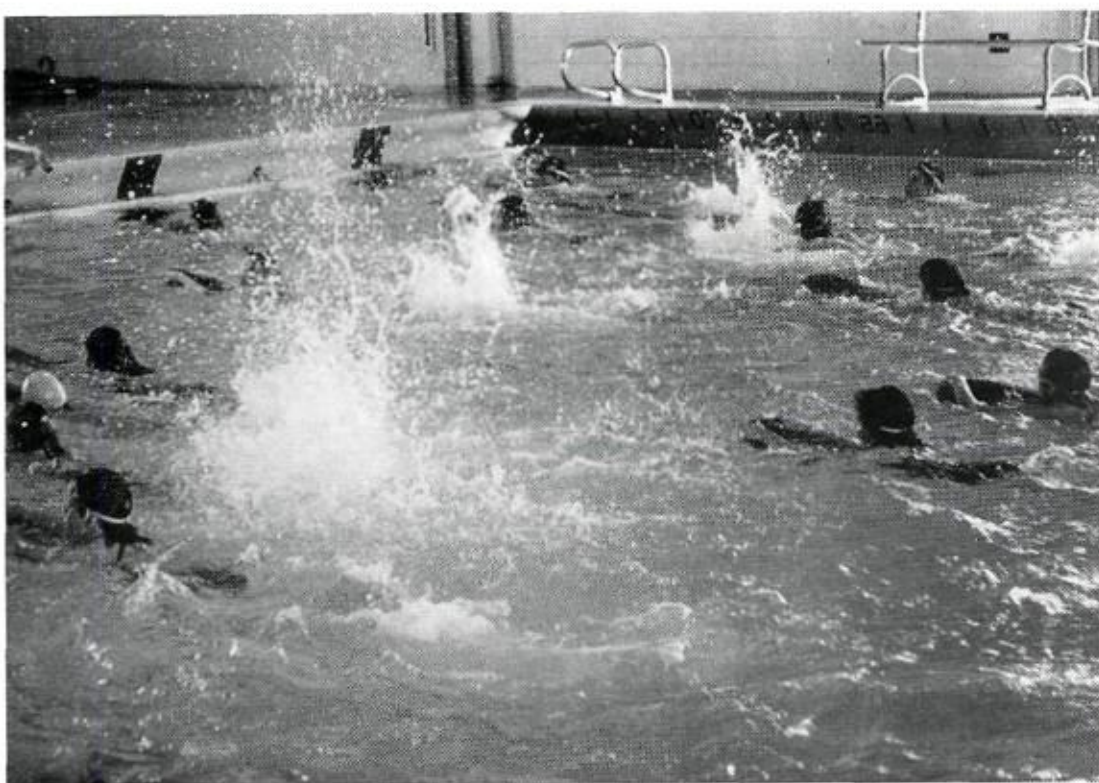

Helms also set a new school record in the 100-yard backstroke with a 1:04.47 time and Hauser turned the trick in the 100-yard breaststroke with 1:97.66.

Grade Problems Call Halt to Tennis Victories

The Varsity Tennis Team started off strong, but had grade problems going into the district tournament. Varsity went 7-9-1 on the season taking second in individuals losing only to the state champions, and second in team tennis at the district meet. Overall, the team received sixth place state team ranking. In individual tennis, Amy Hunt and Lori Hardage went to regionals. Denise Rea and Carolyn Ebbers, Judd Reamy and Todd Wright also went to regionals as doubles partners.

Headlines, Deadlines, Pictures and People

Students in the Photojournalism class at GHS started out the year with new cameras, and big ideas. The 20 students were eager to put their creative talents to work.

Because of the eagerness of the class, each member of the class was called upon many times throughout the year to assist the Aerie staff. They responded to the call for help cheerfully and with enthusiasm.

The Photojournalism class shot the majority of pictures for the yearbook. The class also developed film, printed pictures and wrote copy for the book. The students learned how to do layouts, sold ads, and assisted in creating the cover design.

This experience resulted in several of the class members being asked to join the 1986 Aerie Staff.

Mark Polson and Todd Bickam brush up on their sign-language.

Look out Chippendale's, here comes Joe Christian.

Jill Fuller and Kim Piske are ready for combat.

Kayla Bizzell gives it the "over the shoulder" look.

"You . . . want me . . . to pose with that tree?" says Gene-a Martinka.

"Is it a freshman?" asks Dana Nelson.

"Watch me make it disappear!" says Elaine Fortune.

Amy Lynn Acosta

"Little Acosta" GHS Memories: Freshman year with the 3 left over "Good Ol' Boys" and my junior and senior years in V.O.E., and living for the weekends. Hobby: Drinking and Partying. Teacher: Mrs. Crowley. Singer: Jim Glaser. Friends: Sue, Chick, Janelle, Tammie, Danise, Lyn, Kim W., Beamer, Alfred, and Roland. Ambition: College, succeed in business, and hopefully get together with the guy who drives the Red Camaro!

Laurinda Acosta

GHS Memories: Wonderful times I had there. The memories will always keep me young. I wish the rest of the teens coming to G'town High all the Luck in the world and may they turn the place upside down. Car: Porsche. Teacher: Annim Humphreys. Sport: Cross Country. Radio Station: KLB.

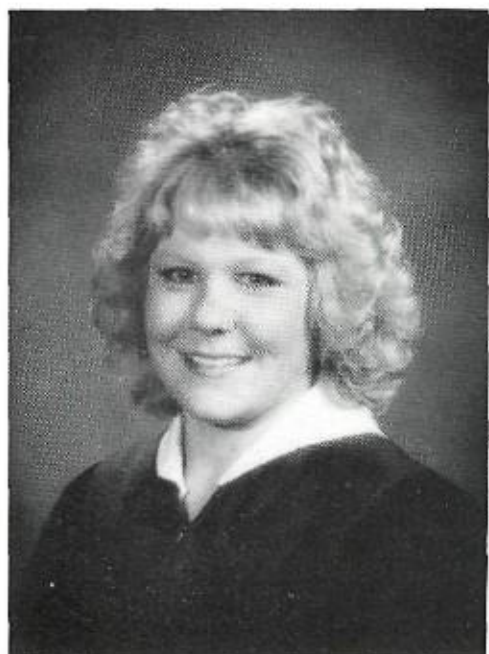

Nikki Adams

"Nik" GHS Memories: Mr. Russell's science class, his grade book, the summer before my Senior year, my friendship with Lisa, and most of all Mike. Car: Showie's Truck. Singer: George Strait. Friends: Mike, Lisa, Kirk, Wade, Robert, LRS, STAFF, and my mom and dad. Radio Station: KASE 101

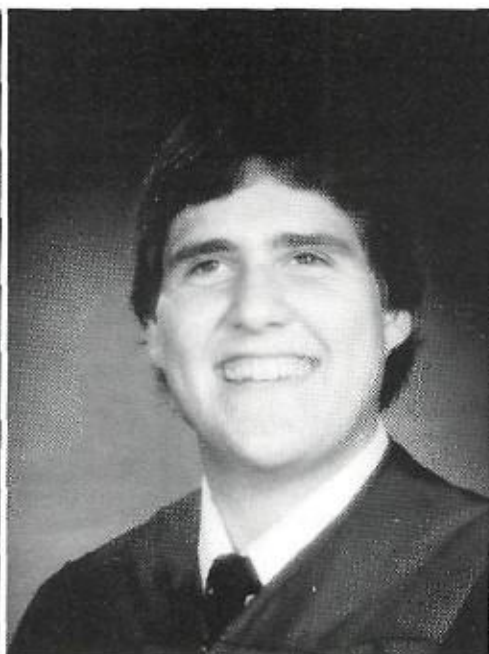

Tammie Ann Agee

GHS Memories: All of the crazy people and all of the crazy things we've done! Friends: Danise, and everybody else I know! Car: '83 black Custom Deluxe Double Cab Duley. Saying: Goonie-Goo-Goo. Singer: George Strait.

Sandi Darlene Albracht

"Red" GHS Memories: Becoming a great poet because of being C.P.'s secret admirer and for all the crazy explorer campouts. Hobby: Backpacking, canoeing, when I don't fall out or fall down. (Right Danny?) Teacher: Mr. Thomas. Friends: Lisa, Lynn, Lara, Rachel, the "Explorers" and the White Wing's. Ambition: To live a "fabulous" life and to find a "fabulous" man.

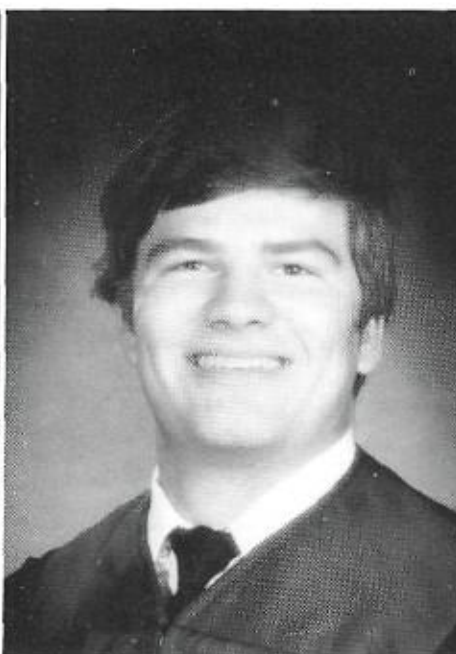

Mike Alexander

Anette Alexander

"Netter" GHS Memories: Cheerleading, the wild summer before my senior year, Cars concert, spending the night at Lori's and Courtney's, but not really staying there, Don S. and Austin H. stabbing me in the ribs everyday in English, selling ads in Journalism with Lori, Scott E., and Shawn, and all the trips to 6th Street with "the gang!" Friends: Jenn, Court, Jane, Barnett, the gang, Woody, Duane, and the rest of the Choo-Choo gang, the "Crew", C.B., T.R., S.E., J.F., K.B.

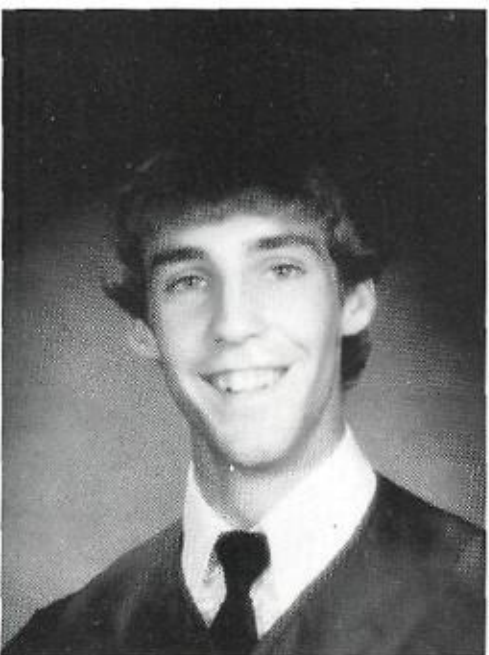

Mitchell Allen

GHS Memories: '83 Bi-District Football Champs, great times with friends, football prepractice, practice and post practice with the ants, attitude adjustments. Friends: John C., Football team, Mindy, Bull Missy, Kim, Suzette, Jill, Paula, Carla, S.M. Dingy, Danice, Tammy. Ambition: Undo the wrong done to the right and to eat with every girl in the world and in general wreck havoc over the universe. Saying: Go for it. forty hundred.

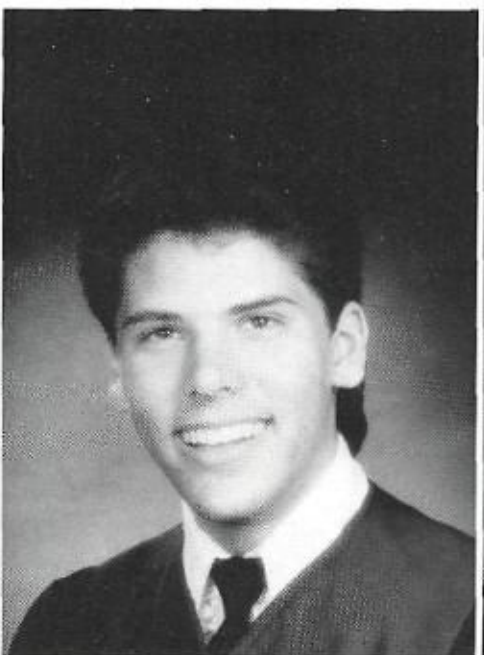

Elizabeth Amador

"Liz" GHS Memories: Many arguments among the "Aerie" staff, my first senior year (sheesh!), going 45 miles per hour in the parking lot, the time I had a head-on collision with Fina's tire rack. Car: ZZ Top's Eliminator. Group: Stray Cats (of course) Friends: Ruthy, Joni, Stephanie, Yolette, Tim, Missy, Arthur, Gary, "Toga", "CAT", "O", Mark, Haven, and anyone who enjoys a good tune!

When two entire classes of high school students and their dates dress to the hilt and spend money like it was going out of style, PROM SEASON has arrived.

The result of years of tradition, prom is one of the most memorable events in a high school student's career and "Roman Nights," the theme of the April 20, GHS prom, was no different. Assorted events lead up to the event for the prom-bound couple, but preparations for prom began as early as six months prior to the big night.

As the night drew near, limousines could be seen dotting Georgetown's roads. The time then came to pick up dates and face the cameras. "We must have had two rolls of film used up on us: him walking to the door, me walking down the stairs, him pinning on my corsage and every other thirty seconds," jokingly said junior, Marci Gish. After the photo session, most students could be found taking flight to Austin for a meal in a restaurant properly suited for the young

The Final Blow

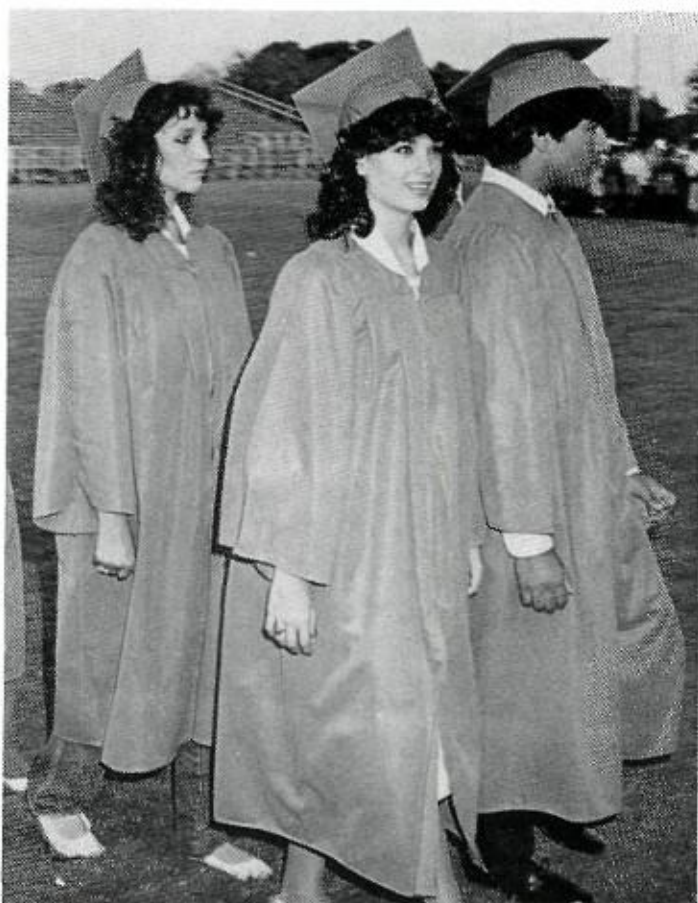

Out of a senior class of 334, only 299 received diplomas on graduation night. The 10% who did not graduate were unable to participate in ceremonies due to their failing grades.

Seniors were affected by the new House Bill 72, only a fraction of what the freshmen will feel. Having to adjust to a new grading system in their senior year was tough on everyone. To pass a class students had to make a 70 rather than a 60. This hurt many seniors who were struggling with 60 as the cutoff point.

High School Principal Tom Foster said, "We'll be happy to present diplomas to any student certified to graduate," and those who planned to make up classes in the summer or next fall, could plan to receive diplomas then.

Juniors chosen for Honors Ushers are Jill Fuller, Marshall Eidson, Denise Rea, Jay Gantt, Matt McKay, Jennifer Hausen, Jason Walters, and Robin Holden.

Oliver Top Grad

At graduation ceremonies May 31, 1985, senior Jennifer Mishler introduced Paul Oliver as valedictorian and Mike Holan as salutatorian for the 1985 senior class.

Oliver's grade point average of 96.8717 took the coveted top honor. Just six tenths of a point below Oliver was Mike Holan with an average of 96.813.

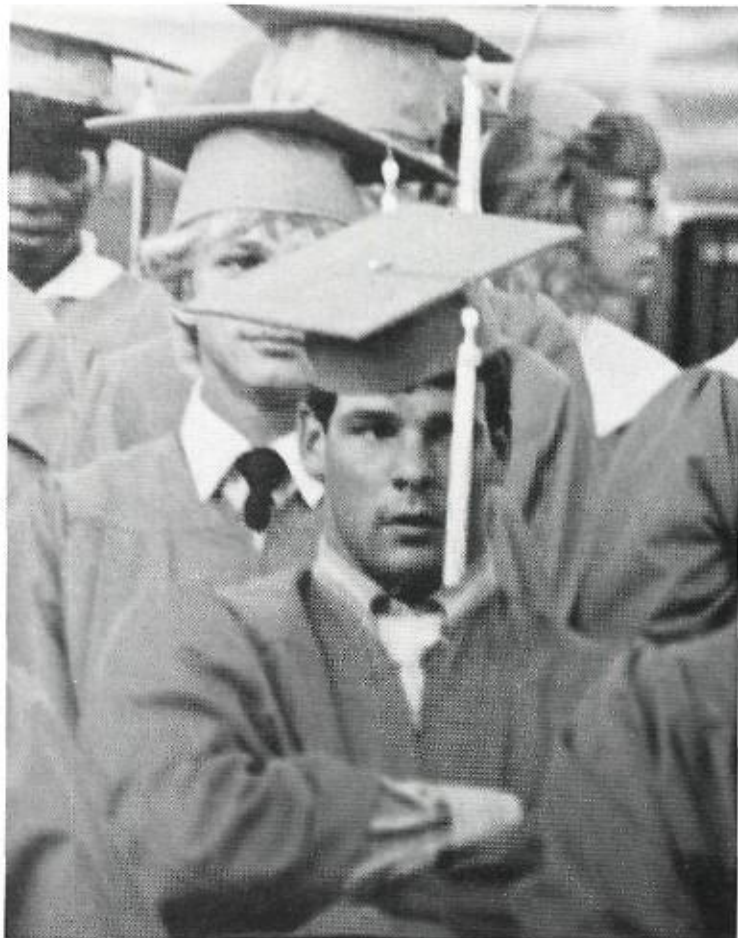

Both students spoke at graduation ceremonies.

Chemical-free Graduation Party Draws Celibrants

By: Stephanie Jeffries

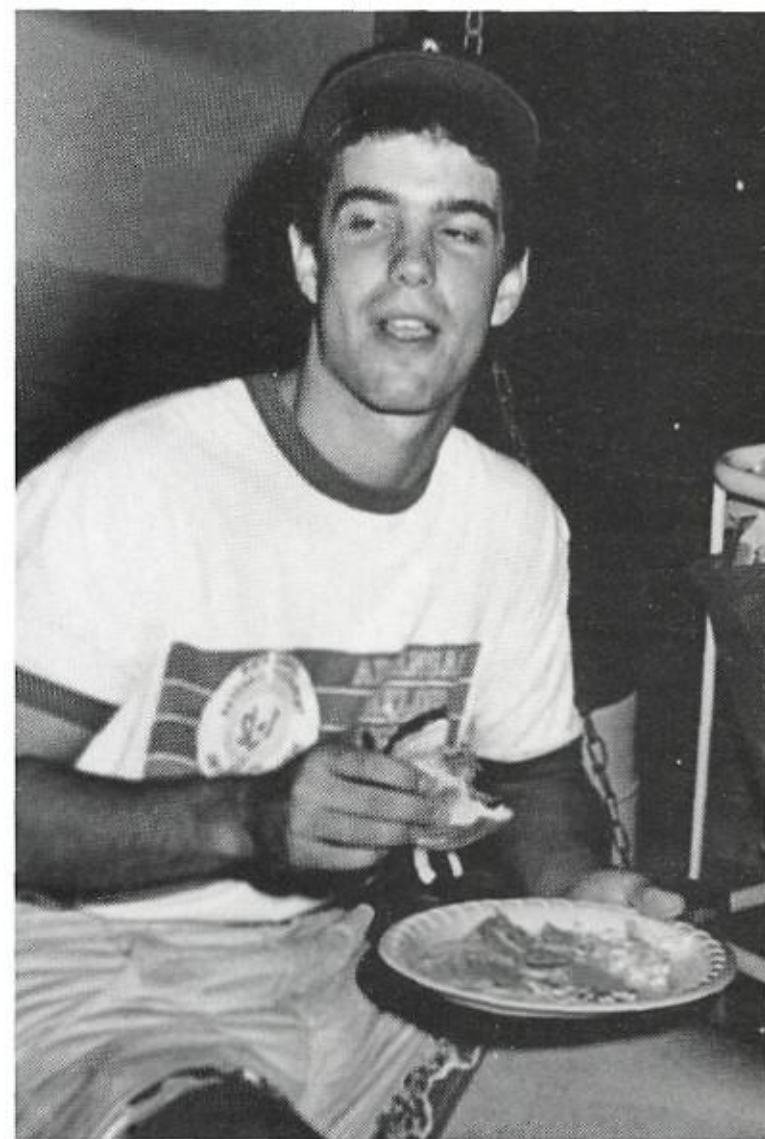

A chemical-free graduation party, sponsored by Parents for Pride, a local group made up of concerned parents, students, and other adults from the community, followed graduation. The party was a result of Coach Andy Griffin's concern about the alcohol and drug problem at Georgetown High School.

Swimming, dancing, eating, and "play-money" gambling were all activities the party offered. Rules were simple. No drinking of alcoholic beverages, no drugs of any kind, and no smoking.

Door prizes awarded included a trip to the Bahamas, Six Flags passes, stereo systems, a refrigerator, and a television. This gave students an added incentive for participating in the new concept.

Community businesses also got involved. Food was provided by local grocery stores. Serenada Raquet Club donated the site, black jack tables were donated by the Austin Jaycees and movies were also donated.

Giving students a party they could have fun at without drinking or doing drugs was the main objective of the organization. The choice between going to a country beer bust, Sixth Street, or the chemical-free party was left up to the student. Parents for Pride gave students a chance to enjoy and still remember their high school graduation.

Fred Uhlman scarfs down hamburgers and other goodies at the party.

LARRY ANSCHUTZ
P.O. Box 1059
Georgetown, Texas 78626
512/863 2920

107 Shady Oak Drive
(By Appointment Only)

A native of Texas, born in Austin in 1948, he was educated in art at the University of Texas and at the Dallas Art Institute. He has developed his expertise in art as a detailed portrait artist, and as a display designer.

Larry was encouraged by public demand for his restful and moving pastels to become a professional artist in 1972.

His works have a style of their own. Larry's perfection of detail of the land and the sea is almost photographic. Larry's unique use of pastel adds a quality of texture and blending of tones which place him among the country's finest young artists.

The art of Larry Anschutz may be found throughout the United States in the finest galleries, museums and private collections.

The beauty of Larry Anschutz's creations makes them more than a financial investment of quality; indeed, these pleasing pastels are an investment in the quality of life.

Editor Audra Buchanan puts her ideas down on paper.

The staff on one of their diligent working days.

Before the 1984 school year was even over, yearbook staffers started meeting to plan the 1985 book.

Business staff members started selling ads for the book during the summer, and editors met to make plans for the design of the book.

Bold new strides were made toward making a bigger and better book this year. The format was changed, going from 7 1/2X10 to a larger 9X12 format. The number of pages was reduced but because the new pages were larger and unnecessary copy was eliminated, coverage was given to all major events. This year's yearbook was sold for two weeks, and resulted in a record sale.

Many things go into the making of a yearbook. Scheduling pictures and writing copy is only a small part. Coping with misplaced copy, blank negatives, missed deadlines, depleted chemicals in the darkroom, exposed paper, misplaced pages, and other mishaps gave Mrs. Donna Przygoda "strokes, heart attacks, and grey hairs."

Even though someone's name may have been misspelled or left out, or some important event may have been missed, the staff did its best to produce a wonderful book. All 15 students on the staff were dedicated to making a book that will hopefully please everyone.

Sincere thanks goes to the Photojournalism class who helped out whenever was necessary.

Sandra Meadows and Tessy Feist are caught by the photographer while discussing contact sheets.

Rhonda Heath, Cheryl Dedeck and Jeanna Hedges promote yearbook sales at a pep rally.

Memories of the Past . . .

The 1984-85 yearbook staff was one that will not soon be forgotten by one of its former editors . . . me!

As a member of the staff last year, I often looked at the editors and visualized things that I, as editor for the upcoming year, would do differently. In my mind, I made great plans that I felt would help us create and produce a terrific yearbook. Few of my dreams were completely carried out but the ones that were make me proud.

Being on a yearbook staff taught me a lot, but being an editor taught me even more. In a class made up almost totally of girls, there were many personal conflicts and disagreements. Somehow we managed to overcome these and work together as a team. Probably the most important things I learned were to use my best judgement, control my temper and overlook a lot of things people said.

My Co-Editor, Cheryl Dedek, made the year seem easier. For two people who had had a lot of conflicts before, we managed to work together really well. As two completely different individuals we had different ideas and tastes. Although we sometimes had to compromise we almost always agreed on the final decision.

My advisor, Donna Przygoda, helped me a great deal. Even though I didn't accept her criticisms very well and didn't take them the way I should have she was always there. She was a good friend, a good teacher, and a terrific person. "Thanks, and don't ever give up no matter how crazy a staff may seem!"

The 1984-85 Aerie went through a lot. Decisions were made, changed, and rearranged many times. The staff put a lot of hard work into it, in hopes that the student body would enjoy for many years to come.

Being an Editor was a privilege and honor as well as a lot of hard work, time and energy. I will never forget the experience it gave me, nor will I forget the people who helped me through it.

P.S. Good luck Kayla and Cyndi!!!!!!!

The 1984-85 school year is over and the yearbook is almost finished. As I look back to the beginning of the school year I see a group of people who were filled with hope that this yearbook would be the best one that G.H.S. has ever seen. We all have had dreams and ideas for the book, some of them were realized, and some never were.

As you read through this yearbook I hope you will be able to see all the dreams. You will see cherished memories of a year that went by almost too fast. You will see memories of a GREAT class, the Class of 1985. But most of all you should see the HOPE in these pages. They were done with love and they contain memories that will last and shine forever, but if you look beyond the memories you should be able to see all the HOPE for better years ahead and the HOPE for G.H.S.

During my four years at G.H.S. I have always heard people say how much they hated the town, the school, and everything about it. I have even gone so far as to say that, "I hated it and that I couldn't wait to get out." Well now I am out and I see a whole new world ahead of me, but I realize that even though I am out, I am sad.

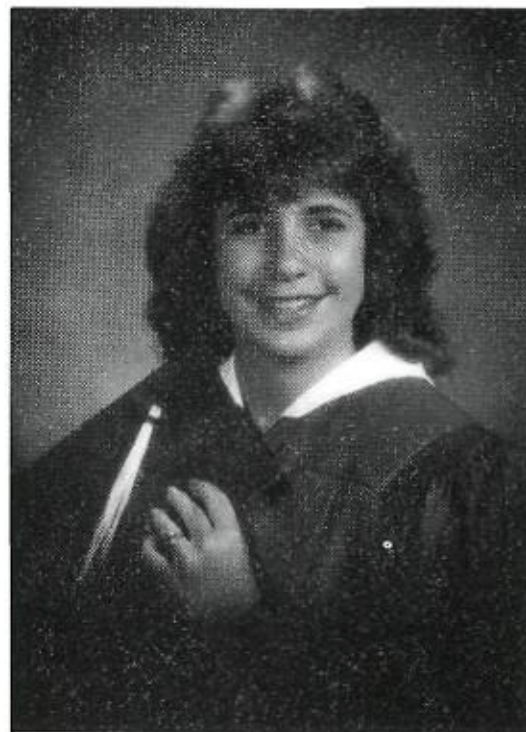

I am sad because I am leaving a way of life that I loved, I am leaving some of the people that I have come to care for very much. G.H.S. has given me the ability to make a new and wonderful life for myself. It has given me great memories of the past and a shining HOPE for the future. So as you read this yearbook I hope you will come to see good ole G.H.S. for what it really is, a maker of memories and an establisher of HOPE.

I would like to thank some very special people. First of all I would like to thank Donna Przygoda, the yearbook advisor. She worked harder and longer on this book than anyone else. "Thanks Mrs. P, for giving us the ability to create the best yearbook the school has ever had!" "I would also like to thank Kayla B., Wendy P., Kayla S., and the members of the photojournalism class for coming back and working on the book during the summer. Mrs. P and I would never have finished it if it hadn't been for all your hard work.

In closing I hope that I have left all of you, the students of G.H.S.; MEMORIES of the past and HOPE for the future.
